FORMER OFFICIAL IS BOOKED ON A MURDER CHARGE

DAVID HARRIS CLARK, LOS ANGELES, HAD A "SPOTLESS RECORD"

NOW CHARGED WITH SLAYING
POLITICAL BOSS AND MAGAZINE EDITOR

By RONALD W. WAGONER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Los Angeles, May 22.—David Harris Clark, young former deputy district attorney with a "spotless record," was booked at county jail today on a charge of murdering Charles Crawford, political boss, and Herbert Spencer, magazine editor.

Clark, unshaven and with circles under his eyes, walked into the hall of justice shortly before last midnight and surrendered to Chief Investigator Blayne Matthews of the district attorney's office, whom he had previously telephoned.

Immediately he was closeted with Matthews and Burton Fitts, district attorney, for hours of questioning.

Fitts, who once handed Clark difficult cases to prosecute, joined with Chief of Police Roy E. Steckel in naming the young attorney as the likely slayer of Crawford and Spencer, shot to death late Wednesday in a back room of Crawford's Hollywood real estate office.

Fitts and Chief Steckel declared that circumstantial evidence points to the former deputy, at present a candidate for a municipal judgeship.

According to a statement by Fitts, Crawford while dying in the Georgia Street receiving hospital about two hours after he was wounded, gasped out a name to Rev. Gustav Briegleb, who asked him who shot him.

"Dave, Dave," was the mumbled whisper of the politician to Briegleb, Fitts declared.

It also was learned that Clark last Tuesday purchased a .38 calibre revolver, the type used in the double slaying.

According to Captain Joe Taylor of the police homicide squad, the gun was paid for with a "bum check." The purchase, Taylor said, was made the day after Clark returned from Agua Caliente, Mexico, with "his nerves frayed."

Three persons who saw the killer flee from Crawford's office were shown a picture of Clark. The witnesses were Lucille Fisher, Crawford's secretary; Billie Rohrbeck, a secretary in a nearby office, and Ray Radke, a real estate man.

Detective Lieutenant Frank James said all identified the photograph as that of the slayer.

Two detectives who went to Clark's home last night to arrest him learned that his wife, Mrs. Nancy Clark, daughter of the late Circuit Judge James T. Malone, of Long Island, had not seen her husband since Tuesday.

Mrs. Clark, attended by a few close friends, went to the district attorney's office for a conference in which she told Fitts that she and Clark were to have attended a party last Saturday, but that her husband disappeared and went to the Mexican resort. He came back Monday night and disappeared again Tuesday morning, the district attorney was informed.

"He was in bad shape when he came back from Agua Caliente," a close friend of Clark's told Fitts. "His nerves were all frayed."

Other friends told Fitts that Clark's present campaign had cost much money. They said he was pressed for funds and felt that lack of proper financial backing might result in his defeat.

Just what effect this attitude might have had in his relations with Spencer and Crawford, Chief Steckel and Fitts could not or would not say.

Spencer was interested with Frederick "Mike" Schindler, former newspaperman, in the publication of the Critic of Critics, a liberal political magazine.

Schindler denied today that Crawford was financially interested in the magazine, which recently started to expose asserted "rackets" in Los Angeles. Clark, it was said, felt that an article printed in the magazine did not benefit his campaign.

Clark's last big case under Fitts was his successful prosecution of Daisy De Voe, secretary to Clara Bow. Miss De Voe was convicted of grand theft of $825 from the actress.

Additional credit went to Clark because of his work in criminal angles of the $100,000,000 Julian Petroleum Corporation collapse.

Last February, with an apparently excellent record of seven years' service under Keyes and Fitts, Clark resigned to run for municipal judge in the primaries early this month. He amassed enough votes to run in the final election on next June 2, although he ran behind the incumbent, Judge Charles B. McCoy.

PRESIDENT SAYS RED CROSS SPIRIT IS THE PRIDE OF AMERICA

LAUDS FOUNDERS IN A SPEECH
COMMEMORATING 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF SOCIETY

JUDGE JOHN BARTON PAYNE IS PRAISED FOR HIS WISDOM,
COURAGE, ZEAL IN WORK

Washington, May 22.—(U.P.)—The simple charitable spirit of the American Red Cross was given high praise by President Hoover in a speech here last night commemorating the 50th anniversary of its founding.

Without going into any of the disputes of the last congress over drought relief, the executive as president of the welfare relief organization traced its origin and its development.

"It will remain, as it has been and is, a chief glory and pride of the American democracy," he said.

Women furnished the Red Cross with its generous and charitable purpose, the president continued. He compared their initiative to "the most beautiful flowers of the American spirit and American democracy."

Of Judge John Barton Payne, now chairman of the Red Cross, the president said:

"His wisdom, courage and zeal are beyond praise."

The speech follows in full:

The Address

The Red Cross is one of the most beautiful flowers of the American spirit and the American democracy. It represents our people in their most generous, unselfish and spontaneously warm-hearted character. And it represents them in the most effective exercise of their powers of organization and self-government. Supported wholly by the voluntary gifts of the people, it is managed by the voluntary service of high-minded private citizens. And yet it occupies a unique position in the public mind as a truly national institution, a living organism of the people, vitalized by their affection, fed by their gladly given money, and firmly rooted in their trust. Through the loftiest of all spiritual qualities—charity—it has become the guardian of the people from suffering in times of disaster. It has commanded the recognition of governments, its charters are conferred by special act, its position in international activities is guaranteed by treaty. By its very purpose it compels the respect for its own flag and its own passports.

The 50 years of the life of the Red Cross, which the American people celebrate today, have been years of evolution of an impulse and an idea and a method to produce this greatest institution in alleviation of human suffering that we have ever known. Its beginnings were small, and it grew because it expressed the humanity and the generosity and the practical helpfulness natural to our people. And like so many of the benign social agencies that bless our democracy, it sprang from the mind and heart of a woman. Clara Barton was in her own person and her own life all that the Red Cross has since become. She in turn gained much of her inspiration from another great woman—Florence Nightingale. The magnificent structure of today grew up around Miss Barton's passionate pity for the sick and the distressed and her practical genius and energy in their relief. She was the ministering angel of the battlefields and hospitals of the Civil War. When peace returned she still lived like a soldier, with her field tent and equipment always packed and ready to respond instantly to the call of duty. The Johnstown flood found her ready, and within an hour after it was reported she was on her way to the stricken city. She responded to a thousand such calls, but her service on the battlefield and her service at Johnstown especially captured the public imagination, and it is these two things that have largely directed the development of the character of the American Red Cross. It has evolved into an agency for the nursing of the wounded in war and for the relief of the victims of disaster in time of peace.

Clara Barton did not look to government for support for her work. Governments are always too slow, frequently too short-sighted, to meet the sudden, sharp demands of critical emergencies in human suffering. She depended upon the instant response of the individual human heart to finance the instant need. This gave her the flexibility and freedom of private initiative in her work. The Red Cross has grown in this tradition. Hundreds of times it has appealed to the American people for funds to meet an immediate situation, and invariably the American people have immediately responded. It has raised millions in a week when millions were needed. No finer illustration has ever been given of the tremendous practical power of pure and unselfish emotion than these outbursts of American generosity to finance relief of suffering caused by conflagration, flood, earthquake, and drought. No finer illustration has

BODY OF HOLMAN NOW RESTS ATOP PILOTS' KNOB

Minneapolis, May 22.—(U.P.)—Atop Pilots' Knob, highest point in Acadia cemetery and landmark for fliers going between Minneapolis and St. Paul, the body of Charles W. "Speed" Holman rested today. The operating manager of the Northwest Airways and one of the northwest's most famous aviators was buried yesterday afternoon at one of the largest funerals ever accorded a private citizen in Minnesota. More than 35,000 persons crowded around the burial spot. Holman was killed while stunt flying at the Omaha air show last Sunday.

CLEARING SKIES, LIGHT TO HEAVY FROST PREDICTED

KILLING FROST REPORTED FROM SECTIONS OF TWO
DAKOTAS AND MINNESOTA

APPLE GROWERS IN BLACK
HILLS, S. D., FACE GREAT LOSSES

St. Paul, May 22.—(U.P.)—Clearing skies and a light to heavy frost were predicted for tonight and tomorrow by the United States weather bureau today.

A killing frost was reported in many sections of North and South Dakota and the Red River valley in Minnesota last night. In the central part of the state and in the vicinity of the Twin Cities freezing temperatures failed to materialize. St. Paul reported a low point of 42 during the night.

Huron, S. D., recorded 28 degrees while Pierre and Rapid City had 32. Devils Lake, N. D., had 30 and Bismarck reported 34 degrees. It was 32 at Moorhead. La Crosse, Wis., had a minimum temperature of 40 degrees.

Frosts this week were reported to have resulted in great losses to apple growers in the Black Hills of South Dakota. A loss of $40,000 was estimated to have been suffered by fruit growers in the Spearfish valley.

Other crops however are reported normal with plenty of moisture in the soil.

"Have You Any Bonds?" Asks the Court—"Yes, Mortgage on Farm"

Madison, Wis., May 22.—(U.P.)—Felix Kluck came before Federal Judge George T. Page today to be sentenced on a charge of possessing liquor.

"What property have you?" Judge Page, who comes from Chicago, and has been fining prohibition law violators as much as $2,500, asked.

"I got a little land," Kluck replied.

"Any bonds?" asked the judge.

"What do you mean, bonds?" queried the farmer.

"Securities, mortgages, stocks—things like that."

"Sure, I've got some of them—a mortgage on my farm," replied Kluck. His fine was $250.

'TIDE COMING IN' SAYS SCHWAB ABOUT BUSINESS

CHAIRMAN OF THE BETHLEHEM
STEEL CORPORATION DE-
LIVERS ADDRESS

NOTED FOR OPTIMISTIC LEAN-
INGS ON AMERICAN BUSI-
NESS OUTLOOKS

New York, May 22.—(U.P.)—The nation "can be cheered by the knowledge that the 'tide is coming in,'" insofar as business is concerned, Chairman Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation said today.

Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Corporation, said "We are operating at 43 per cent of capacity. There has been no pickup in business. New business coming in is not quite supporting the current rates of operations."

Speaking before the American Iron and Steel Institute, Schwab, noted for his optimistic leanings on American business outlooks, told his hearers the steel industry had not cut wages, and would stand by its workmen. While professing not to give counsel to other lines, his speech made clear his conviction that by greater efficiency in operation, American wages generally can be maintained. He also suggested there is growing "a more sane attitude" concerning lowering of artificial trade barriers.

"Unnecessary fears of the nation's people should be dispelled at once," he said, "for those fears are an important contributing factor in the present economic situation."

Schwab probed the subject of depression from several angles and declared there are "two clouds over our business horizon" and two only, which need to be dissipated.

One of these "clouds," he said, is the question of wage-cutting, which has been solved by the steel industry with extremely satisfactory results; and the other is the fear on the part of business men concerning the instability of prices, particularly the fear of lowering prices.

These two conditions can be adjusted and will be adjusted, Schwab said. Millions of American families, he declared, entertain a fear that there will be a cut in wage rates and a consequent lower living standard.

"This fear," Schwab said, "has led the public to husband its savings, to wear old clothes, to postpone the buying of homes, to curtail purchases far below the level of normal needs."

The danger lies, Schwab believed, in arbitrary slashing of wage rates, and he held that such methods are neither sound nor sane.

"I am fully mindful," he said, "of the obligation of industry to the investing public. I am aware that the reduction of dividends properly raises the question as to whether there has been a reduction in labor costs, but I saw that labor costs in the steel industry can be and have been liquidated without taking it out of the wage rate of the mill employee."

"Labor costs can be liquidated either by greater efficiency or by a slash in rates. To arbitrarily cut rates is much the easier method. It is a simple matter for management to take the payroll and say, 'Cut it ten per cent.' But the former method is the one that has permanent value."

"In getting lower labor costs through increased efficiency, industry so improved," (Continued on Page 6, Column 1)

BURY STOLEN JEWELRY IN MILK CAN; EDSTROM LEADS LAW TO CACHE

MAN ATTACKS ALL
MEMBERS OF FAMILY
IN A JEALOUS RAGE

Dracut, Mass., May 22.—(U.P.)—In a jealous rage, Leroy Skillings, 55, attacked all members of his family with a claw-hammer today, killing his young son, probably fatally injuring his wife and a daughter, and then attempting suicide.

Leroy B. Skillings, 10, died of skull wounds shortly after reaching St. Joseph's hospital, Lowell.

Mrs. Nellie Skillings, 55, and Catherine, 6, were reported near death at the same institution.

Skillings himself was taken to St. Joseph's after slashing his wrists with a razor but doctors believed he would recover.

FIND FARMER NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

ELI SAVICH, CZECHO-SLOVAKIAN,
FREED BY JURY AT SUPERIOR

Superior, Wis., May 22.—(U.P.)—A Douglas county jury today found Eli Savich, 44, Czecho-Slovakian farmer not guilty on charges of first degree murder, after 18 hours deliberation.

Savich was charged with shooting Iver Anderson, 29, to death when the latter came to the Savich farm on February 11 to search for an alleged still stolen from the Anderson farm.

Savich pleaded self defense and told on the stand how Anderson and two companions beat and kicked him when he denied having stolen the still. Prosecution witnesses, Stanley Mankoski and Oscar Olson testified that Savich shot Anderson without warning.

Savich said that Anderson and his companion demanded to search the farm for the still. Savich told them to get the sheriff and he would let them search the farm, he testified. Anderson then pointed out Mankoski as a prohibition agent. During the fight that ensued, Savich testified he drew a gun and warned Anderson to keep away. When Anderson rushed him again, Savich said he fired once.

ST. PAUL CITY AIRPORT NAMED FOR HOLMAN

St. Paul, May 22.—(U.P.)—The city council today changed the name of the Municipal airport to Holman Municipal airport in honor of "Speed" Holman, aviator killed Sunday at Omaha.

A triangular piece of ground in the northeast corner of the field is to be set aside for a monument to the memory of the nationally known aviator.

SPAIN CONTRACTS FOR SOVIET RUSSIAN OIL

Madrid, May 22.—(U.P.)—A three-year contract for importation of oil from Soviet Russia has been signed by the republican government through its oil ministry, the ministry of finance has disclosed.

It was asserted that the contract would mean a saving of 100,000,000 pesetas (about $10,000,000) over the three-year period.

Oil from the United States, Great Britain and Roumania was imported by Spain under the monarchy. Soviet oil was said to be cheaper.

SCURRY TO COVER WITH $14,000 IN MORNING HOLDUP

CAR HEADS TOWARDS MILLE
LACS, BELIEVED TO HAVE
CHANGED COURSE TO HERE

GET $5,000 FROM THE CAGES AND
VAULT; VIOLENCE THREAT
PRODUCES $9,000 HIDDEN

Two young men who held up the Farmers and Merchants State Bank at Pierz at opening time today and escaped with an estimated $14,000 were believed in hiding in a cottage in the Brainerd lake region.

The bandit car was seen to head north towards Mille Lacs lake. It is believed to have changed its course and to have skirted Brainerd and made the successful run to an obscure cottage. Law officials here were of the opinion that the possibility existed that the young men would "bury" themselves and their car in a lake cottage until the immediate pursuit slackens. Then when the so-called "smoke clears" the bandits would run the gauntlet to the Twin Cities, the cash intact. With this theory officials here are co-operating with criminal apprehension agencies of the state in an endeavor to rout out the bandits.

Pierz, Minn., May 22.—(U.P.)—Going behind the counters of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank on a pretext of looking at a road map, two youths suddenly produced revolvers, held up officials and escaped with $14,000.

Two persons entered the bank while the holdup was in progress and were forced to lie on the floor of the bank until the bandits were satisfied they had all the money available.

A. P. Stoll, president of the bank, first saw the bandits as he left the bank to go to the post office. The two were sitting in a high powered coupe in front of the bank. Stoll became suspicious and after walking a block from the bank, returned.

He found the pair in command of the bank with R. M. Stoll, cashier, and A. H. Flicker, assistant cashier, prone on the floor. The president of the bank was forced to lie down with the others.

After ransacking the cages and vault where they got $5,000 in currency, the bandits demanded more money. The officials said there was no more money at hand. One of the bandits struck Flicker on the head with the butt of his gun and threatened to "give you the works" unless they furnished more money.

Flicker then pointed out a secret compartment in the vault from where the bandits obtained an additional $9,000 in currency. A customer, Milton Gilbride, entered the bank at this time and he too was forced to the floor.

Assured that there was no more money, the bandits backed slowly from the bank and escaped on highway No. 18 toward Mille Lacs lake.

Sheriff's posse were organized in Little Falls and other Morrison county communities. The holdup was completed in less than five minutes, Stoll said. The men were unmasked and about 22 years old.

Pierz is about 20 miles east of Little Falls and about the same distance south of Brainerd. Stoll said he got the license number of the bandit machine and said he could recognize the pair if he saw them again.

Flicker said the bandits appeared in the lobby of the bank about 9:30 A. M.

"One of the men walked to the end of the counter where I stood. He muttered something about a road map. The other bandit moved behind the counter near R. M. Stoll," Flicker said. "Suddenly they both took pistols from their pockets and ordered us to lie on the floor."

"At this time A. P. Stoll returned. He was forced to lie down on the floor with us. One of the bandits covered us while the other went into the vault."

A. P. Stoll said he caught the license number of the car, although he was not certain of the last two numbers. He said the number was probably either B-33-393 or B-33-333. The first number is listed for Rudy Nausea, Minneapolis, and the second to R. E. Lowrie, Minneapolis.

LINK ROBBERY WITH KIDNAPING ACT

Stillwater, Minn., May 22.—(U.P.)—Finding of the small automobile used by two men who held up the Marlow Night club here this week led police today to link the robbery with the kidnaping of a St. Paul man the night of the holdup.

Descriptions of the car used by the Marlow holdup bandits in escaping fit the automobile which was found on the Long Lake road near Woodport. The automobile has been identified as the car stolen from James Basta St. Paul youth after he was forced to drive two men into the country.

More than $100 was obtained by the Marlow club.

LIVERS ADDRESS

NOTED FOR OPTIMISTIC LEAN-
INGS ON AMERICAN BUSI-
NESS OUTLOOKS

New York, May 22.—(U.P.)—The nation "can be cheered by the knowledge that the 'tide is coming in,' insofar as business is concerned, Chairman Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation said today.

Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Corporation, said "We are operating at 43 per cent of capacity. There has been no pickup in business. New business coming in is not quite supporting the current rates of operations."

Speaking before the American Iron and Steel Institute, Schwab, noted for his optimistic leanings on American business outlooks, told his hearers the steel industry had not cut wages, and would stand by its workmen. While professing not to give counsel to other lines, his speech made clear his conviction that by greater efficiency in operation, American wages generally can be maintained. He also suggested there is growing "a more sane attitude" concerning lowering of artificial trade barriers.

"Unnecessary fears of the nation's people should be dispelled at once," he said, "for those fears are an important contributing factor in the present economic situation."

Schwab probed the subject of depression from several angles and declared there are "two clouds over our business horizon" and two only, which need to be dissipated.

One of these "clouds," he said, is the question of wage-cutting, which has been solved by the steel industry with extremely satisfactory results; and the other is the fear on the part of business men concerning the instability of prices, particularly the fear of lowering prices.

These two conditions can be adjusted and will be adjusted, Schwab said. Millions of American families, he declared, entertain a fear that there will be a cut in wage rates and a consequent lower living standard.

"This fear," Schwab said, "has led the public to husband its savings, to wear old clothes, to postpone the buying of homes, to curtail purchases far below the level of normal needs."

The danger lies, Schwab believed, in arbitrary slashing of wage rates, and he held that such methods are neither sound nor sane.

"I am fully mindful," he said, "of the obligation of industry to the investing public. I am aware that the reduction of dividends properly raises the question as to whether there has been a reduction in labor costs, but I saw that labor costs in the steel industry can be and have been liquidated without taking it out of the wage rate of the mill employee."

"Labor costs can be liquidated either by greater efficiency or by a slash in rates. To arbitrarily cut rates is much the easier method. It is a simple matter for management to take the payroll and say, 'Cut it ten per cent.' But the former method is the one that has permanent value."

"In getting lower labor costs through increased efficiency, industry so im-

BURY STOLEN JEWELRY IN MILK CAN; EDSTROM LEADS LAW TO CACHE

MEMBERS OF FAMILY
IN A JEALOUS RAGE

Dracut, Mass., May 22.—(U.P.)—In a jealous rage, Leroy Skillings, 55, attacked all members of his family with a claw-hammer today, killing his young son, probably fatally injuring his wife and a daughter, and then attempting suicide.

Leroy B. Skillings, 10, died of skull wounds shortly after reaching St. Joseph's hospital, Lowell.

Mrs. Nellie Skillings, 55, and Catherine, 6, were reported near death at the same institution.

Skillings himself was taken to St. Joseph's after slashing his wrists with a razor but doctors believed he would recover.

FIND FARMER NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

ELI SAVICH, CZECHO-SLOVAKIAN,
FRED BY JURY AT SUPERIOR

Superior, Wis., May 22.—(U.P.)—A Douglas county jury today found Eli Savich, 44, Czecho-Slovakian farmer not guilty on charges of first degree murder, after 18 hours deliberation.

Savich was charged with shooting Iver Anderson, 29, to death when the latter came to the Savich farm on February 11 to search for an alleged still stolen from the Anderson farm.

Savich pleaded self defense and told on the stand how Anderson and two companions beat and kicked him when he denied having stolen the still. Prosecution witnesses, Stanley Mankoski and Oscar Olson testified that Savich shot Anderson without warning.

Savich said that Anderson and his companion demanded to search the farm for the still. Savich told them to get the sheriff and he would let them search the farm, he testified. Anderson then pointed out Mankoski as a prohibition agent. During the fight that ensued, Savich testified he drew a gun and warned Anderson to keep away. When Anderson rushed him again, Savich said he fired once.

ST. PAUL CITY AIRPORT NAMED FOR HOLMAN

St. Paul, May 22.—(U.P.)—The city council today changed the name of the Municipal airport to Holman Municipal airport in honor of Charles "Speed" Holman, aviator killed Sunday at Omaha.

A triangular piece of ground in the northwest corner of the field is to be set aside for a monument to the memory of the nationally known airman.

SPAIN CONTRACTS FOR SOVIET RUSSIAN OIL

Madrid, May 22.—(U.P.)—A three-year contract for importation of oil from Soviet Russia has been signed by the republican government through its oil ministry, the ministry of finance has disclosed.

It was asserted that the contract would mean a saving of 100,000,000 pesetas (about $10,000,000) over the three-year period.

Oil from the United States, Great Britain and Roumania was imported by Spain under the monarchy. Soviet oil was said to be cheaper.

PRISONER SHOWS TEMPLETON
AND LITTLE HIDING PLACES OF JEWELRY, CLOTHING

EXPECTED TO MAKE COMPLETE
CONFESSION; HYATT, ALSO HELD, REMAINS SILENT

Buried in a ten-gallon milk can with six inches of earth over it and camouflaged with boughs, the jewelry stolen from the Lundborg Jewelry Store on Monday night was recovered shortly before noon today near the Minnesota & International Railway bridge, three miles west of Brainerd, on the old White Sand lake road.

The suits taken from the Anderson Dry Cleaning establishment in the same robbery, were recovered on a knoll 50 feet from the jewelry cache. The clothing was obscured from sight by a small pine tree.

The recovery was effected after Arthur Edstrom, one of the two suspects held in the city jail, indicated his desire to reveal the hiding place of the stolen articles. Edstrom led Chief of Police Thomas Templeton, Sheriff Frank E. Little and Clarence Anderson, dry cleaner, to the places where the stolen goods were recovered.

Police said that Edstrom has not as yet made a confession as to the robbery but that his knowledge of the goods was an indication of his guilt. He was expected to make a complete confession in further questioning this afternoon.

Leonard Hyatt, the other suspect held in the city jail, remained silent. He will be cross-examined further this afternoon in an effort to get him to talk.

Still others may be implicated in the robbery. Samuel Lundborg, proprietor of the jewelry store, was inspecting the jewelry in police headquarters this afternoon to determine if all of the stolen property was recovered.

The police and sheriff's search of a farm three miles west of Brainerd yesterday indicated they were on the right track to the recovery of the stolen goods. They received information on a tip that Edstrom and Hyatt borrowed a truck that they might take "something hot" into the country to hide until the proper time would come when they could dispose of it.

The search of the farm revealed no stolen jewelry. The pair is also suspected of having robbed the Coney Island Lunch, Laurel Street "hot dog stand" April 29 as pen knives and cigarette lighters identified as stolen property were taken from their clothing.

Hyatt is also suspected of being implicated in the Ramsey Fur Farm robbery last winter with Bud Keller, of Merrillfield, and Ed Poster of Rice, jail breakers, who will be taken into custody after their release from a western Canada jail.

Edstrom showed no hesitancy in finding the stolen property this morning. He took the officers to a road running parallel with the tracks and to the left of that he indicated the spots where the stolen property was found.

POLICE CAPTAIN NOW ON TRIAL

JOSEPH LEHMEYER, MINNEAPOLIS,
CHARGED WITH NEG-LECT OF DUTY

Minneapolis, May 22.—(U.P.)—Police Captain Joseph Lehmeier went to trial today on an indictment charging him with neglect of duty and acceptance of a gratuity in return of some jewels stolen from a Lake Minnetonka resort proprietor.

Seven jurors were chosen when noon recess was taken. Eugene Rerat, Lehmeier's counsel, was successful in obtaining separate trials for his client and Detective Fred Schroeder with whom he was jointly indicted.

Rerat announced that upon completion of drawing of a jury he would ask dismissal of the case on the grounds that the state has no evidence on which to convict.

Indictments against the two and three other policemen were drawn after the recent grand jury investigation of alleged vice and racketeering in Minneapolis.

3 Injured When Car Collides With a Hook and Ladder Fire Truck

St. Paul, May 22.—(U.P.)—Injured when their automobile was overturned after a collision with a hook and ladder fire truck going to a fire, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Haider and their daughter, Ella, 15, were in Ancker hospital today. None of the members of the truck crew was injured.

SCURRY TO COVER WITH $14,000 IN MORNING HOLDUP

CAR HEADS TOWARDS MILLE
LACS, BELIEVED TO HAVE
CHANGED COURSE TO HERE

GET $5,000 FROM THE CAGES AND
VAULT; VIOLENCE THREAT
PRODUCES $9,000 HIDDEN

Two young men who held up the Farmers and Merchants State Bank at Pierz at opening time today and escaped with an estimated $14,000 were believed in hiding in a cottage in the Brainerd lake region.

The bandit car was seen to head north towards Mille Lacs lake. It is believed to have changed its course and to have skirted Brainerd and made the successful run to an obscure cottage. Law officials here were of the opinion that the possibility existed that the young men would "bury" themselves and their car in a lake cottage until the immediate pursuit slackens. Then when the so-called "smoke clears" the bandits would run the gamut to the Twin Cities, the cash intact. With this theory officials here are co-operating with criminal apprehension agencies of the state in an endeavor to rout out the bandits.

Pierz, Minn., May 22.—(U.P.)—Going behind the counters of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank on a pretext of looking at a road map, two youths suddenly produced revolvers, held up officials and escaped with $14,000.

Two persons entered the bank while the holdup was in progress and were forced to lie on the floor of the bank until the bandits were satisfied they had all the money available.

A. P. Stoll, president of the bank, first saw the bandits as he left the bank to go to the post office. The two were sitting in a high powered coupe in front of the bank. Stoll became suspicious and after walking a block from the bank, returned.

He found the pair in command of the bank with R. M. Stoll, cashier, and A. H. Flicker, assistant cashier, prone on the floor. The president of the bank was forced to lie down with the others.

After ransacking the cages and vault where they got $5,000 in currency, the bandits demanded more money. The officials said there was no more money at hand. One of the bandits struck Flicker on the head with the butt of his gun and threatened to "give you the works" unless they furnished more money.

Flicker then pointed out a secret compartment in the vault from where the bandits obtained an additional $9,000 in currency. A customer, Milton Gilbride, entered the bank at this time and he too was forced to the floor.

Assured that there was no more money, the bandits backed slowly from the bank and escaped on highway No. 18 toward Mille Lacs lake.

Sheriff's posse were organized in Little Falls and other Morrison county communities. The holdup was completed in less than five minutes, Stoll said. The men were unmasked and about 22 years old.

Pierz is about 20 miles east of Little Falls and about the same distance south of Brainerd. Stoll said he got the license number of the bandit machine and said he could recognize the pair if he saw them again.

Flicker said the bandits appeared in the lobby of the bank about 9:30 A. M.

"One of the men walked to the end of the counter where I stood. He muttered something about a road map. The other bandit moved behind the counter near R. M. Stoll," Flicker said. "Suddenly they both took pistols from their pockets and ordered us to lie on the floor."

"At this time A. P. Stoll returned. He was forced to lie down on the floor with us. One of the bandits covered us while the other went into the vault."

A. P. Stoll said he caught the license number of the car, although he was not certain of the last two numbers. He said the number was probably either B-33-393 or B-33-333. The first number is listed for Rudy Nausea, Minneapolis, and the second to R. E. Lowrie, Minneapolis.

LINK ROBBERY WITH KIDNAPING ACT

Stillwater, Minn., May 22.—(U.P.)—Finding of the small automobile used by two men who held up the Marlow Night club here this week led police today to link the robbery with the kidnaping of a St. Paul man the night of the holdup.

Descriptions of the car used by the Marlow holdup bandits in escaping fit the automobile which was found on the Long Lake road near Wildwood. The automobile has been identified as the car stolen from James Basta St. Paul youth after he was forced to drive two men into the country.

More than $100 was obtained by the Marlow club.

One of the largest dope rings on the Pacific Coast, with branches in New York, was unearthed in a 16-room "dream house" in Oakland, Calif., (shown above). Edna Lewis, 34, (insert) asserted to be connected with the ring which operated the man-as a "dope cure sanitarium," was trapped in San Francisco by California narcotic agents. The roomy house, with spacious grounds, was known among addicts as a "dream house" where they could go and "live like millionaires for a couple of weeks." The ring is being probed further.

BRAINERD
25 Years Ago

May 22, 1906

George Murphy and Tom Templeton, two of Brainerd's old time strong amateur ball players returned to town a few days ago and have accepted positions in the Northern Pacific shops. They will strengthen the city team considerably.

H. H. Hitch, after six years faithful service as bookkeeper and cashier for Swift Packing company has resigned and will take a rest. He has not as yet determined what he will do in the future. He is succeeded by L. E. Thayer.

The street committee and street commissioner are doing a good work in replacing the cross walks with crushed stone as fast as possible. There is nothing that makes a better crossing and nothing so cheap and durable.

The fixtures for the new saloon to be run by P. E. McCabe in the Cullen building on Front street arrived and are being put in place today. He expects to be able to open up in about a week.

The case of Mrs. Merrill vs. the Coates Liquor company went to the jury last night, and they returned a verdict of $2,061.60 damages. M. E. Ryan, attorney for Mr. Coates, states the case will certainly go to the supreme court.

The annual meeting of the Duluth conference of Congregational churches is in session this afternoon and evening and all day tomorrow at the First Congregational church here.

Joe Weitzel was re-elected as street commissioner at the meeting of the city council last evening. Mr. Weitzel urged the city to request the railroad to remove the frog from the street and replace the plank in the crossing with plank the height of the rails at the Broadway crossing.

Maxine Larson will give the valedictory. Besides these two the graduating class includes Ruth Boyington, Luverne Gustavson, George Gutz, Theodore Hojem, Ernest Johnson and Nellie Norris.

THE MAN WITH THE
"HAIR-TRIGGER" TEMPER

HE WAS irritable at the office, and grouchy at home. His enemies increased, his friends became fewer. Then one day his doctor told him the truth. He had been handicapped by constipation for years. It had brought headaches and constantly irritating ills to make him "touchy." It had stolen his energy and good nature.

His doctor suggested eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly. And in a few days he was a changed man, cheery, ambitious—and on the road to success and happiness.

Constipation is so unnecessary. It can be overcome so easily, so pleasantly by eating delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN: a delightful, ready-to-eat cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In stubborn cases, serve ALL-BRAN with each meal.

Use this natural method and avoid the dangers of habit-forming pills and drugs. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron, which builds up the blood.

Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, with fruits or honey added. Delicious when combined with canned peaches. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers in the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Prominent among the thousands of concerns using large fleets of Chevrolets are many of the leaders of American industry. In fact, 73 outstanding business firms have purchased a total of 27,605 Chevrolet cars and trucks.

The reason for this preference lies in the unexcelled economy of Chevrolet cars and trucks, as proved by official cost records. These records show that 20 miles to the gallon is a common occurrence among Chevrolet cars. That oil expense is extremely low. That Chevrolet cars and trucks require only a minimum of service attention. That they give satisfactory low-cost service over exceptionally long periods of time.

Naturally, a car with such a fine record of economy represents an extremely wise investment for any buyer! Especially so, when you consider the many advantages that Chevrolet offers above and beyond economical operation. Come in and learn what these advantages are—what they mean in terms of style, comfort, safety, reliability and value.

BRAINERD
25 Years Ago

May 22, 1906

George Murphy and Tom Templeton, two of Brainerd's old time strong amateur ball players returned to town a few days ago and have accepted positions in the Northern Pacific shops. They will strengthen the city team considerably.

H. H. Hitch, after six years faithful service as bookkeeper and cashier for Swift Packing company has resigned and will take a rest. He has not as yet determined what he will do in the future. He is succeeded by L. E. Thayer.

The street committee and street commissioner are doing a good work in replacing the cross walks with crushed stone as fast as possible. There is nothing that makes a better crossing and nothing so cheap and durable.

The fixtures for the new saloon to be run by P. E. McCabe in the Cullen building on Front street arrived and are being put in place today. He expects to be able to open up in about a week.

The case of Mrs. Merrill vs. the Coates Liquor company went to the jury last night, and they returned a verdict of $2,061.60 damages. M. E. Ryan, attorney for Mr. Coates, states the case will certainly go to the supreme court.

The annual meeting of the Duluth conference of Congregational churches is in session this afternoon and evening and all day tomorrow at the First Congregational church here.

Joe Weitzel was re-elected as street commissioner at the meeting of the city council last evening. Mr. Weitzel urged the city to request the railroad to remove the frog from the street and replace the plank in the crossing with plank the height of the rails at the Broadway crossing.

Entertain in Compliment
to Miss Edith Miller

Mrs. Ed Vaars and Mrs. George Vaars entertained on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the former, 1324 Park street, in compliment to their niece, Miss Edith Miller of Minneapolis, bride-to-be of this month. About 22 guests were entertained, the afternoon being spent socially and a fairly luncheon served. Decorations were carried out in green and white. Miss Miller was presented with a 22 piece silver from her friends.

Yesterday afternoon, the ladies of the Gilbert Lake community gathered at the home of Miss Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, Route 5, in a miscellaneous bridal shower for Miss Miller. She received a large number of lovely gifts.

Miss Miller's marriage to Harlan Welch of Minneapolis will take place this month.

Return From Visit to West Coast
Mr. and Mrs. Peter Forsberg, 503 D street Northeast returned yesterday morning from the west coast where they have been visiting with relatives and friends for the past three weeks.

Mr. Forsberg was formerly tool maker for the Northern Pacific, having worked 45 years of continuous service for them. He started with the company in 1883 at the time of the driving of the Golden Spike, and continued until three years ago when he was retired.

This was Mr. Forsberg's first trip to the west coast, and they report a very enjoyable time.

Pequot High School Graduation
Eight students will graduate from the Pequot high school this year at the close of the school year. The activities of graduation will begin Sunday evening with baccalaureate services at the Norwegian Lutheran church, with Rev. O. Rem delivering the sermon. The commencement exercises will be held at the school auditorium Tuesday evening, May 26 with Judge Alfred Thwing of Grand Rapids giving the commencement address. Maxine Larson will give the valedictory and Marjorie Kramp the salutatory. Besides these two the graduating class includes Ruth Boyington, Luverne Gustavson, George Gutz, Theodore Hojem, Ernest Johnson and Nellie Norris.

Baptist Ladies Aid

The ladies aid of the First Baptist church will hold a rummage sale at 610 Laurel street tomorrow. The doors will be open at 9 a. m.

LIGHT DELIVERY PANEL TRUCK, $555

Prominent among the thousands of concerns using large fleets of Chevrolets are many of the leaders of American industry. In fact, 73 outstanding business firms have purchased a total of 27,605 Chevrolet cars and trucks.

The reason for this preference lies in the unexcelled economy of Chevrolet cars and trucks, as proved by official cost records. These records show that 20 miles to the gallon is a common occurrence among Chevrolet cars. That oil expense is extremely low. That Chevrolet cars and trucks require only a minimum of service attention. That they give satisfactory low-cost service over exceptionally long periods of time.

Naturally, a car with such a fine record of economy represents an extremely wise investment for any buyer! Especially so, when you consider the many advantages that Chevrolet offers above and beyond economical operation. Come in and learn what these advantages are—what they mean in terms of style, comfort, safety, reliability and value.

THE MAN WITH THE
"HAIR-TRIGGER" TEMPER

HE WAS irritable at the office, and grouchy at home. His enemies increased, his friends became fewer. Then one day his doctor told him the truth. He had been handicapped by constipation for years. It had brought headaches and constantly irritating ills to make him "touchy." It had stolen his energy and good nature.

His doctor suggested eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly. And in a few days he was a changed man, cheery, ambitious—and on the road to success and happiness.

Constipation is so unnecessary. It can be overcome so easily, so pleasantly by eating delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN: a delightful, ready-to-eat cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In stubborn cases, serve ALL-BRAN with each meal.

Use this natural method and avoid the dangers of habit-forming pills and drugs. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron, which builds up the blood.

Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, with fruits or honey added. Delicious when combined with canned peaches. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers in the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ever been given of the tremendous practical capacity of an organized free citizenry than the skill and efficiency with which the Red Cross has administered this relief. This combination of the warm heart and the cool head in action is a perpetual source of just pride to the American people, for it represents them at their best.

A woman founded the Red Cross and a woman has enlarged its usefulness. Miss Mabel Boardman enjoys a deserved national honor for her tireless and effective work in the enlargement of its powers. The men of America, too, have had their indispensable part in its growth. Judge John Barton Payne has earned equal honor for his long years of devoted leadership across a score of disasters and for his steadfastness in holding the organization to its national ideal as a nongovernmental agency for the free expression of the private generosity and humanity of the people. His wisdom and courage and zeal are beyond praise.

But the greater glory of the Red Cross belongs to the people themselves. It is living embodiment of their heart and soul. It has lived and grown because it is a natural outgrowth of their spiritual impulse. Its sap is drawn from the soil of their spirit, its leaves are colored with their thought, and its flowers are fragrant of their sweetest emotion. It is as truly theirs as the flag or the public school. They wished it, and they willed it into being. It grows with their growth. They support it as spontaneously as they support the church or the lodge. They control it as simply and as naturally as they control the operations of the district school. They will thus support it and control it so long as it continues what it is: The natural repository of the generosity, the effective, practical instrument of their eager wish to relieve human suffering. It will remain, as it has been and is, a chief glory and pride of the American democracy.

"Will to Power"

Bertrand Russell says that the main urge of childhood is the "will to power"—in other words, the desire to become an adult. Although this is not the sole source of children's play, it shows in the play in two forms. The first consists in learning to do things, the second in fantasy or make-believe.

Nationality of Popes

A pope is not bound to be of Italian nationality, though more than 200 popes have been Italians. There have been 15 French, 14 Greek, 8 Syrian, 6 German, 5 Spanish, 2 Austrian, and 1 each of Portuguese, Swiss, English and Dutch nationality.

Trees as Memorials

A 300-YEAR-OLD tree in a church burying ground at Falls Church, Virginia, has been selected by the Daughters of the American Revolution as the second living memorial of America's past to be preserved for posterity.

The National Society of the D. A. R. has embarked upon a plan of choosing one historic tree for preservation each year by means of a nation-wide referendum through its state chapters. The trees are saved by tree surgeons.

The tree at Falls Church, a tulip poplar with a foliage spread of 75 feet, has looked down upon more than three centuries of American history. It was more than 100 years old when George Washington, vestryman of the church, rested in its shade. Crumbling tombstones, in desolate dignity, speak mutely of the death of all else that lived in pre-revolutionary days. The tree is the only living thing that was alive in the hamlet of Falls Church when Washington lived.

During the revolutionary war the church was a recruiting place for the Company of Captain Charles Broadwater, a fellow vestryman of George Washington. Captain Henry Fairfax restored it just before the Mexican war, but in the Civil war it was used by Union soldiers, first as a hospital, then as a stable. All of its equipment was destroyed except the font, which pious hands hid and saved.

In recent years the church has been restored and today is a replica of that in which Washington worshipped. Located on the Lee highway six miles south of the Key bridge in Washington, it is a Mecca for visitors who come every year from all parts of the nation.

Tree surgery has been practiced with great success by experts. Good, flourishing, sturdy trees beautify any estate or home, in town or at the lakes. One becomes interested in and loves the tall pines, the elms, oaks, etc., and each tree seems to have an individuality.

One of the most interesting trees in the Brainerd Lake Region is located at the home of John L. Smith in Ojibway Park addition which lies between North Long Lake and North Round Lake. The elm is known as the council tree of Chief Hole-in-the-Day. The venerable and revered head of the Chippewas in aboriginal days dispensed justice among his tribe under the spreading branches of the tree, which even then was of large size and had impressed the Indians. Near by the Indians tilled maize and farther in the woods was their sugar camp. The council elm is sturdy. Its trunk is unscathed. Its foliage is heavy. It is one of the finest trees in the woods at the Smith home at the lake.

A Discouraging Habit

A HABIT some people have of "short-cutting" over lawns is very discouraging to the owner of the lawn and also discourages growth of the grass. By continually using the same shortcut people eventually wear a path into the most luxuriant lawn.

The upkeep of a lawn is fully equal to that of any garden. There must be replanting, rolling, mowing, etc. A beautiful lawn makes any home more attractive and inviting. The lawn includes the home property and the plots which border the sidewalk.

These "short-cutters," grownups as well as children, generally walk thoughtlessly, for if they had any conception of the damage they are doing they would keep their steps on the cement walks which the householder builds at heavy expense.

Signs calling attention to newly planted lawns are often knocked down and the freshly seeded plot carries its quota of heavy feet. Constant education and pleading are required to keep these destroying feet in the right channels and away from the grass.

Small Town Racket

THIS is certainly the time to watch out for "rackets," says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer. The large city is not the only place for rackets.

The pleasure of being able to get something for nothing usually ends in pain and it is a safe bet that big bargains offered by persons you do not know usually turn out to be frauds. At Detroit Lakes a glib salesman demonstrated a new brass polish much to the interest of a number of merchants who purchased quantities ranging from a quart to a gallon. Deliveries were made, the money paid, the salesman departed and the purchasers found they had bought colored water, entailing a loss to the community of more than $50.

Relished Hard Work

HARD work is relished by some people, in fact they actually thrive on it.

Mrs. Rose Harden of Belleville, N. J., just observed her 106th birthday. Her motto through life has been "Work as hard as you can; if you can't work, you are too old and you'd better die."

She had an uncle, a Polish priest, who was reported to have lived to be 135 years old.

It is hoped the World Wheat Conference at London will work out a plan satisfactory to all the countries represented, solving the present grain crisis. The quota plan, with some slight reservations, may be the one finally adopted. Delegates understand the necessity of curtailing acreages, but are generally agreed that it must come through voluntary action. Orderly marketing is a requirement to avoid pressure on the market and prevent fluctuations.

RETAIL food prices in the 51 largest cities of the country showed an average decrease of about 2 per cent from March 15 to April 15, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has announced. The figure for April 15 was 18 per cent below that for April 15, 1930, the bureau said. Dallas, Texas, and Springfield, Ill., with decreases of five per cent for the month ending April 15, lead the list of cities reporting.

CAPT. FRANK HAWKS, flying around Europe, is establishing speed records almost daily. The last one broken was his flight from Malmoe, Sweden, to LeBourget Field at Paris, a distance of 700 miles, made in three hours and 15 minutes.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The body of Baroness von Wiese is found in the garden of Eagle's Nest, Emily Hardy's palatial country home, wrapped in Mary Frost's shawl. Preceding her murder, the Baroness had given a note to the butler. This he denies. She had also quarreled with her maid, Mary Frost, returning for her shawl, at midnight, saw it on Laura Allan. Laura, however, claims Mary entered the garden wearing the shawl. "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter, fiancée of Assistant Police Chief Walter Vance, learns Laura was responsible for the broken engagement of her own sister and Ted Frost, Mary's husband. Ted had also flirted with the Baroness. "Bim" observing the butler dancing, wonders about him. She learns from Carl Carey, New York reporter, that the Baroness was Margot Belle, famous dancer. The supposed stolen jewels of the Baroness are found in the Baron's care. Vance thinks Ted Frost may have committed the crime, mistaking the Baroness for his wife of whom he is jealous. Although Ted and Mary Frost left Eagle's Nest separately before midnight, they arrived home together at 4 a. m. Vance finds a pair of dusty slippers on the roof.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE room was exactly as it had been when the police entered it Tuesday morning excepting that the door into the dressing room stood open. With a little shiver of distaste, Bim entered this room and immediately afterward was sorting over a dozen pairs of shoes—walking shoes, evening pumps, slippers made of satin, or leather, of brocade—all stretched over shoe trees and placed neatly in a row on a shelf beneath the long, wide mirrors.

These shoes, like those Walter had found in the tank on the roof, were custom made as the markings showed; but whereas those had been a French label, these were turned out in London. Furthermore they were narrower and longer than the ruined silver slippers; those, without question, had not belonged to the Baroness von Wiese.

Behind the Mask

Bim was replacing the shoes, bending over the shelf, when she was assailed by the curious sensation of being watched. There had been no sound other than the rustling she, herself, made in the apartment and it was with a slight crawling along her spine that she raised her eyes to the mirror and there met the intent, reflected gaze of the maid, Jane. The girl stood in the doorway, straight and still, and in the instant that their glances clashed Bim saw something strangely like anger in the pale face—something which vanished at once, leaving more polite inquiry in its place.

"I heard you come in," Jane explained as Bim turned. "I thought perhaps I might be of service, madamoiselle." She waited, politely patient, though with the air, it seemed to Bim, of one who meant to guard possessions for which she might be held responsible.

Bim said nothing for a moment but her look went to the maid's feet and she felt a shock of surprise. Although Jane was tall—taller by two or three inches, perhaps, than Bim herself, there was about her a slim gracefulness—one which gave her an appearance of delicacy. In spite of this, however, her feet were almost grotesquely awkward; they were long and wide and she wore shoes which were practically shapeless, with low, plaited heels and elastic bands at the sides.

Struck as she was by the discrepancy between Jane and her feet, Bim could only stare in astonishment and finally the maid moved slightly and Bim, raising her eyes, saw what she thought was embarrassment in her expression, and smiled in order to cover her own gaucherie.

Looking Around

"I was looking around a little," she said kindly.

"You're going to stay on here a while?"

"It is the order of the police, Madamoiselle. Later I shall try for another position. Perhaps I shall remain with Mrs. Hardy; she has spoken to me of this."

"Oh? Better not let Imogene hear that," Bim stated with a laugh.

"That," Bim stated with a laugh. "Once again that inscrutable look passed over the girl's face and she half raised her hand. Bim noted the white slenderness of the palm, the pink oval of the nails. A well-kept hand, an aristocratic hand—an odd hand for a maid to have."

"No doubt Imogene will be better suited elsewhere," Jane remarked with a hint of dryness. "Perhaps I may close the dressing room now, Madamoiselle? Madam's things are left in my care, you see."

"Certainly, Jane," Bim watched while the girl locked the door and placed the key on the lobby. Then she, herself, secured the door to the apartment and stood looking after the figure disappearing flat-footedly down the corridor.

"It is the first time," she told herself, "in all my life that I've seen a pretty woman with homely feet—but then," her thought ran on, "I've never been especially interested in feet before. I've a feeling, though, that I'm due to know quite a lot more about feet than I do this minute."

After returning Em's key to the vase, Bim then made a devious

way to the basement under the west wing and there found Walter poking in a dust and rust covered little old laundry stove with a half grin of triumph on his face.

"Your friend Em was wrong," he burst out the moment Bim came into sight. "This place has been closed up all right but not as long as she said. There was an old fashioned padlock on the door and it's been pried off. And look what I found!"

He poked among a half dozen blackened objects spread on the top of the stove. In the faint light which managed to filter through boarded windows, Bim saw that the objects were but a partially broken and stained by smoke.

"Know what they are?" the young man inquired as he polished one on his handkerchief. He held this up for her inspection and it proved to be a flat in shape made of imitation mother-of-pearl.

"They're used on hoodlums," Bim mused. "And—and on uniforms. Walter! Somebody came here and burned the white linen dress!"

"Not all of it. Look again." From beneath the stove he drew a bundle which turned out to be a skirt; it was a length of starched linen which once had been white, torn and jagged at the top as if ripped away in haste from a stitched-on belt.

A Matter of Hours

"We're getting somewhere, Bim! It's only," he cried, "A matter of hours before we'll solve the mystery."

Bim had a feeling, however, that the mystery surrounding the murder of the Baroness von Wiese was not so near solution as the young Assistant Chief of Police optimistically supposed and in the subsequent events proved her to be right.

Nevertheless the finding of the shoes which had been worn into the garden on the night of the killing—perhaps on the very feet of the killer—and of a portion of the dress which likewise had played a part in that night's affair, meant such progress that both she, herself, and Walter felt reason for elation.

them. Women are more delicate, fussier about life's niceties. But even a woman can be wrong—believe it or not. The only men who never make mistakes are gnomes. A mistake eliminates meals and new clothes, and they work at not making them. But even they get faulty after they marry and relax into what they used to be.

The only way to know a perfect man, is to keep your distance and not "middle aisle" with him. Once you do the mask is off and there you are—a perfect woman married to a monster!

Isn't life just too amusing?

Mrs. G. R. Pennsylvania: I know how you feel about your husband's manners, but there is little you can do, if he won't improve because you beg him to do so. Seems to me if he loves you he will, but men are strange. Let them get a bad habit and they stubbornly hang on to it and try to make you think it isn't a bad habit. Can't you get someone to tell him a story of some other man who was that crude, and not let him know they mean him. Sometimes the "brutes" see the faults of others but refuse to admit their own. He's such a good man, let him bury himself in the Sunday papers if he wants to. Other women have their husbands all day Sunday. Then they come home too tired to talk and ready for sleep. I have no suggestions to make. The only thing to do is to grow a hard shell and ignore his faults. What you can't cure, endure. You have to do that or give them up and you don't want to do that. This reading business is a man's right. Don't crack the whip too often. Reading isn't much of a sin, now, is it?

Mrs. G. Colorado Springs: Yeah, I know, you married a business man and he got rich and you got lonely and now you want to make him all over into an artistic type. Bosh! It can't be done. You married him as he was, and you will have to be satisfied. And remember these so-called artistic types aren't angels to live with. They are the devil's sons offener than not. They are grand at pink teas, but they are never tamed.

Mrs. C. J. H. Chicago: Why let the daughter run you out of your position if her father wants you to stay? A twenty-one year old daughter can't run her old father's home, while he is in his right mind. I'd take orders from the father and not let what the daughter says annoy me. Surprises everybody by getting along with her. Do something nice for her and make her like you. You will be surprised to find how easy that is. It would make the father happy and obviate the necessity of a change for you.

R. H. Chicago: No, don't see her. She is married now and you stay away. You are courting trouble.

Trees as Memorials

A 300-YEAR-OLD tree in a church burying ground at Falls Church, Virginia, has been selected by the Daughters of the American Revolution as the second living memorial of America's past to be preserved for posterity.

The National Society of the D. A. R. has embarked upon a plan of choosing one historic tree for preservation each year by means of a nation-wide referendum through its state chapters. The trees are saved by tree surgeons.

The tree at Falls Church, a tulip poplar with a foliage spread of 75 feet, has looked down upon more than three centuries of American history. It was more than 100 years old when George Washington, vestryman of the church, rested in its shade. Crumbling tombstones, in desolate dignity, speak mutely of the death of all else that lived in pre-revolutionary days. The tree is the only living thing that was alive in the hamlet of Falls Church when Washington lived.

During the revolutionary war the church was a recruiting place for the Company of Captain Charles Broadwater, a fellow vestryman of George Washington. Captain Henry Fairfax restored it just before the Mexican war, but in the Civil war it was used by Union soldiers, first as a hospital, then as a stable. All of its equipment was destroyed except the font, which pious hands hid and saved.

In recent years the church has been restored and today is a replica of that in which Washington worshipped. Located on the Lee highway six miles south of the Key bridge in Washington, it is a Mecca for visitors who come every year from all parts of the nation.

Tree surgery has been practiced with great success by experts. Good, flourishing, sturdy trees beautify any estate or home, in town or at the lakes. One becomes interested in and loves the tall pines, the elms, oaks, etc., and each tree seems to have an individuality.

One of the most interesting trees in the Brainerd Lake Region is located at the home of John L. Smith in Ojibway Park addition which lies between North Long Lake and North Round Lake. The elm is known as the council tree of Chief Hole-in-the-Day. The venerable and revered head of the Chippewas in aboriginal days dispensed justice among his tribe under the spreading branches of the tree, which even then was of large size and had impressed the Indians. Near by the Indians tilled maize and farther in the woods was their sugar camp. The council elm is sturdy. Its trunk is unscathed. Its foliage is heavy. It is one of the finest trees in the woods at the Smith home at the lake.

A Discouraging Habit

A HABIT some people have of "short-cutting" over lawns is very discouraging to the owner of the lawn and also discourages growth of the grass. By continually using the same shortcut people eventually wear a path into the most luxuriant lawn.

The upkeep of a lawn is fully equal to that of any garden. There must be replanting, rolling, mowing, etc. A beautiful lawn makes any home more attractive and inviting. The lawn includes the home property and the plots which border the sidewalk.

These "short-cutters," grownups as well as children, generally walk thoughtlessly, for if they had any conception of the damage they are doing they would keep their steps on the cement walks which the householder builds at heavy expense.

Signs calling attention to newly planted lawns are often knocked down and the freshly seeded plot carries its quota of heavy feet. Constant education and pleading are required to keep these destroying feet in the right channels and away from the grass.

Small Town Racket

THIS is certainly the time to watch out for "rackets," says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer. The large city is not the only place for rackets.

The pleasure of being able to get something for nothing usually ends in pain and it is a safe bet that big bargains offered by persons you do not know usually turn out to be frauds. At Detroit Lakes a glib salesman demonstrated a new brass polish much to the interest of a number of merchants who purchased quantities ranging from a quart to a gallon. Deliveries were made, the money paid, the salesman departed and the purchasers found they had bought colored water, entailing a loss to the community of more than $50.

Relished Hard Work

HARD work is relished by some people, in fact they actually thrive on it.

Mrs. Rose Harden of Belleville, N. J., just observed her 106th birthday. Her motto through life has been "Work as hard as you can; if you can't work, you are too old and you'd better die."

She had an uncle, a Polish priest, who was reported to have lived to be 135 years old.

It is hoped the World Wheat Conference at London will work out a plan satisfactory to all the countries represented, solving the present grain crisis. The quota plan, with some slight reservations, may be the one finally adopted. Delegates understand the necessity of curtailing acreages, but are generally agreed that it must come through voluntary action. Orderly marketing is a requirement to avoid pressure on the market and prevent fluctuations.

RETAIL food prices in the 51 largest cities of the country showed an average decrease of about 2 per cent from March 15 to April 15, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has announced. The figure for April 15 was 18 per cent below that for April 15, 1930, the bureau said. Dallas, Texas, and Springfield, Ill., with decreases of five per cent for the month ending April 15, lead the list of cities reporting.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The body of Baroness von Wiese is found in the garden of Eagle's Nest, Emily Hardy's palatial country home, wrapped in Mary Frost's shawl. Preceding her murder, the Baroness had given a note to the butler. This he denies. She had also quarreled with her maid, Mary Frost, returning for her shawl, at midnight, saw it on Laura Allan. Laura, however, claims Mary entered the garden wearing the shawl. "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter, fiancée of Assistant Police Chief Walter Vance, learns Laura was responsible for the broken engagement of her own sister and Ted Frost, Mary's husband. Ted had also flirted with the Baroness. "Bim" observing the butler dancing, wonders about him. She learns from Carl Carey, New York reporter, that the Baroness was Margot Belle, famous dancer. The supposed stolen jewels of the Baroness are found in the Baron's care. Vance thinks Ted Frost may have committed the crime, mistaking the Baroness for his wife of whom he is jealous. Although Ted and Mary Frost left Eagle's Nest separately before midnight, they arrived home together at 4 a. m. Vance finds a pair of dusty slippers on the roof.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE room was exactly as it had been when the police entered it Tuesday morning excepting that the door into the dressing room stood open. With a little shiver of distaste, Bim entered this room and immediately afterward was sorting over a dozen pairs of shoes—walking shoes, evening pumps, slippers made of satin, or leather, of brocade—all stretched over shoe trees and placed neatly in a row on a shelf beneath the long, wide mirrors.

These shoes, like those Walter had found in the tank on the roof, were custom made, as the markings showed; but whereas those had been a French label, these were turned out in London. Furthermore they were narrower and longer than the ruined slipper slippers; those, without question, had not belonged to the Baroness von Wiese.

Behind the Mask

Bim was replacing the shoes, bending over the shelf, when she was assailed by the curious sensation of being watched. There had been no sound other than the rustling she, herself, made in the apartment and it was with a slight crawling along her spine that she raised her eyes to the mirror and there met the intent, reflected gaze of the maid, Jane. The girl stood in the doorway, straight and still, and in the instant that their glances clashed Bim saw something strangely like anger in the pale face—something which vanished at once, leaving more polite neutrality in its place.

"I heard you come in," Jane explained as Bim turned. "I thought perhaps I might be of service, madamoiselle." She waited, politely patient, though with the air, it seemed to Bim, of one who meant to guard possessions for which she might be held responsible.

Bim said nothing for a moment but her look went to the maid's feet and she felt a shock of surprise. Although Jane was tall—taller by two or three inches, perhaps, than Bim herself, there was about her a slim gracefulness—one which gave her an appearance of delicacy. In spite of this, however, her feet were almost grotesquely awkward; they were long and wide and she wore shoes which were practically shapeless, with low, slattern heels and elastic bands at the sides.

Struck as she was by the discrepancy between Jane and her feet, Bim could only stare in astonishment and finally the maid moved slightly and Bim, raising her eyes, saw what she thought was embarrassment in her expression, and smiled in order to cover her own gaucherie.

Looking Around

"I was looking around a little," she said kindly.

"You're going to stay on here a while?"

"It is the order of the police, madamoiselle. Later I shall try for another position. Perhaps I shall remain with Mrs. Hardy; she has spoken to me of this."

"Oh? Better not let Imogene hear that," Bim stated with a laugh.

That, Bim stated with a laugh. Once again that inscrutable look passed over the girl's face and she half raised her hand. Bim noted the white slenderness of the palm, the pink ovals of the nails. A well-kept hand, an aristocratic hand—an odd hand for a maid to have.

"No doubt Imogene will be better suited elsewhere," Jane remarked with a hint of dryness. "Perhaps I may close the dressing room now, madamoiselle? Madam's things are left in my care, you see."

"Certainly, Jane," Bim watched while the girl locked the door and placed the key on the lowboy. Then she, herself, secured the door to the apartment and stood looking after the figure disappearing flat-footedly down the corridor.

"It is the first time," she told herself, "in all my life that I've seen a pretty woman with homely feet—but then," her thought ran on, "I've never been especially interested in feet before. I've a feeling, though, that I'm due to know quite a lot more about feet than I do this minute!"

After returning Em's key to the vase, Bim then made a devious

way to the basement under the west wing and there found Walter poking in a dust and rust covered little old laundry stove with a half grin of triumph on his face.

"Your friend Em was wrong," he burst out the moment Bim came into sight. "This place has been closed up all right but not as long as she said. There was an old fashioned padlock on the door and it's been pried off. And look what I found!"

He poked among a half dozen blackened objects spread on the top of the stove. In the faint light which managed to filter through leaded up windows, Bim saw that the objects were buttons partially broken and stained by smoke.

"Know what they are?" the young man inquired as he polished one on his handkerchief. He held this up for her inspection and it proved to be flat in shape made of imitation mother-of-pearl.

"They're used on housedresses," Bim mused. "And—on uniforms. Walter! Somebody came here and burned the white linen dress!"

"Not all of it. Look again."

From beneath the stove he drew a bundle which turned out to be a skirt; it was a length of starched linen which once had been white, torn and jagged at the top as if ripped away in haste from a stitched-on belt.

A Matter of Hours

"We're getting somewhere, Bim! It's only," he cried, "a matter of hours before we'll solve the mystery."

Bim had a feeling, however, that the mystery surrounding the murder of the Baroness von Wiese was not so near solution as the young Assistant Chief of Police optimistically supposed and in the subsequent events proved her to be right.

Nevertheless the finding of the shoes which had been worn into the garden on the night of the killing—perhaps on the very feet of the killer—and of a portion of the dress which likewise had played a part in that night's affair, meant such progress that both she, herself, and Walter felt reason for elation.

them. Women are more delicate, fussier about life's niceties. But even a woman can be wrong—believe it or not. The only men who never make mistakes are gigolos. A mistake eliminates meals and new clothes, and they work at not making them. But even they get faulty after they marry and relax into what they used to be.

The only way to know a perfect man, is to keep your distance and not "middle aisle" with him. Once you do the mask is off and there you are—a perfect woman married to a monster!

Isn't life just too amusing?

Mrs. G. R. Pennsylvania: I know how you feel about your husband's manners, but there is little you can do, if he won't improve because you beg him to do so. Seems to me if he loves you he will, but men are strange. Let them get a bad habit and they stubbornly hang on to it and try to make you think it isn't a bad habit. Can't you get someone to tell him a story of some other man who was that crude, and don't let him know they mean him. Sometimes the "brute" see the faults of others but refuse to admit their own. He's such a good man, let him bury himself in the Sunday papers if he wants to. Other women have to let the golf courses have their husbands all day Sunday. Then they come home too tired to talk and ready for sleep. I have no suggestions to make. The only thing to do is to grow a hard shell and ignore his faults. What you can't cure, endure. You have to do that or give them up and you don't want to do that. This reading business is a man's right. Don't crack the whip too often. Reading isn't much of a sin, now, is it?

Mrs. G. Colorado Springs: Yeah, I know, you married a business man and he got rich and you got lonely and now you want to make him all over into an artistic type. Bosh! It can't be done. You married him as he was, and you will have to be satisfied. And remember these so-called artistic types aren't angels to live with. They are the devil's sons often more than not. They are grand at pink teas, but they are never tamed.

Mrs. C. J. H. Chicago: Why let the daughter run you out of your position if her father wants you to stay? A twenty-one year old daughter can't run her old father's home, while he is in his right mind. I'd take orders from the father and not let what the daughter says annoy me. Surprise everybody by getting along with her. Do something nice for her and make her like you. You will be surprised to find how easy that is. It would make the father happy and obviate the necessity of a chance for you.

R. H. Chicago: No, don't see her. She is married now and you stay away. You are courting troubles.

BASEBALL LEAGUE TO BE FORMED AT MEETING TONIGHT

WILL INCLUDE
SOUTH SIDE, N. E.
AND ODD FELLOWS

FOURTH TEAM IS DESIRED TO
MAKE THE ORGANIZATION
COMPLETE

THE AMERICAN LEGION JUNIOR
LEAGUE STARTS PLAY-OFF
ON JUNE 2

Baseball will not become legendary to Brainerd if several ambitious young men are backed up by a sufficient number of boosters and fans. A meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Y to form a city league, at which all former city league players as well as any new arrivals to the city or any newly developed players are invited to attend. Several other sports which have been developed from minor to major sports in latter years and the fact that the majority of American youth now live in cities and towns has crowded out hard ball until the recruits of the American and National Leagues are truly bush leaguers, thus being recruited in many cases from what are known as the backwoods areas of our southern states.

Brainerd, in its nearly sixty years of existence, has had some well known ball players who will have a place in history. It will also have come in the future if the American Legion and several others who are well acquainted with the game, can work out matters.

The American Legion junior league for boys up to seventeen years of age will start their play-off June 2 at 9 A. M. when the Northeast Boosters meet the Southeast Pirates. Marvin Nutting will umpire.

Lester Peterson's city team goes into action at Little Falls Sunday, which is a much talked of feature.

It is now the plan to revamp the city league of the past, having the Southside team, the Northeast team and the Odd Fellows team. A fourth team is desired and it is believed that nearly enough suits can be gotten together for the fourth team. It is suggested that two or three games a week could be played for the local schedule. However, all these matters will be worked out tonight when all interested assemble at 8 o'clock in the large club room on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A.

FIVE BATTERS OVER .500 MARK IN D-BALL LEAGUE

The city league two years ago was a big drawing attraction and a financial success. Frank Jarboe has charge of the Northeast team and Fredstrom will again pilot the Odd Fellows. Ira Peterson has charge of the Y. M. C. A. team and will pick a capable manager, while A. G. Loom will manage the Southside.

In checking through the high school and around town, it has been found that there are many new ball players to be had. Also many of the younger players are going to be worked in with the various teams.

Players who have not played before and wish to do so will please leave names and addresses at Y. M. C. A. or get in touch with any of the four managers.

Northeast and Southside will play tonight as a practice game in preparation for the game at Little Falls Sunday.

With Nathan Schuety, high school athletic star, on the mound, the Bye Clothiers pounded out a 7-2 victory over the All-Stars last night before a crowd of 200 people at the N. P. ball park. It was the first start for Schuety in city league competition and he held the All-Stars to five scattered hits.

The game was scoreless until the 4th inning when Propoitnik of the All-Stars clouted one of Schuety's offerings for a homer. Boyd of the Bye team came back in the same inning for a homer to even the count.

The turning point in the game came in the fifth inning when an error by the All-Star first baseman and some timely hitting by the Clothiers let in three runs. Three more runs crossed the plate in the sixth for Byes to put the game on ice.

Toilefson, the All-Star pitcher, was nicked for nine hits, most of them being bunched in the fifth and sixth innings.

Keeps Tradition

Introducing the Rev. Jessie C. Shull, of Virginia, Illinois. His great-grandfather, grandfather and father were ministers. Besides which he has three brothers, two brothers-in-law and his wife as preachers. And he's the nephew of six pastors, grandnephew of four ministers and great-grandnephew of two clergymen, as well as the cousin of 44 ministers. Most of them are Presbyterians.

These entering are: Hohman, high jump; Foster, javelin; Marshall, discus; Moe, 440; Schuety, low hurdles; Gerry Wygle, pole vault; Malmstrom, 880; McClellie, 100-yard dash; Bob Wygle, high hurdles; McClellie, Moe, Schuety and Bob Wygle, relay.

Hohman, Foster, Marshall and Schuety set new records in their events at the district meet.

Winners of first and second places at Moorhead will be entered in the state meet at the U. of M. field house June 6.

'POP' WARNER SIGNS CONTRACT TO MAKE MOTION PICTURES

Palo Alto, Calif., May 22.—(U.P.)—Oliver B. "Pop" Warner, Stanford university football coach, has joined the ranks of Bobby Jones and other sports notables in signing a contract to make motion pictures, he revealed today.

Warner, whose system in intricate football maneuvers has won him wide fame, will make a series of pictures for Universal, starting June 10.

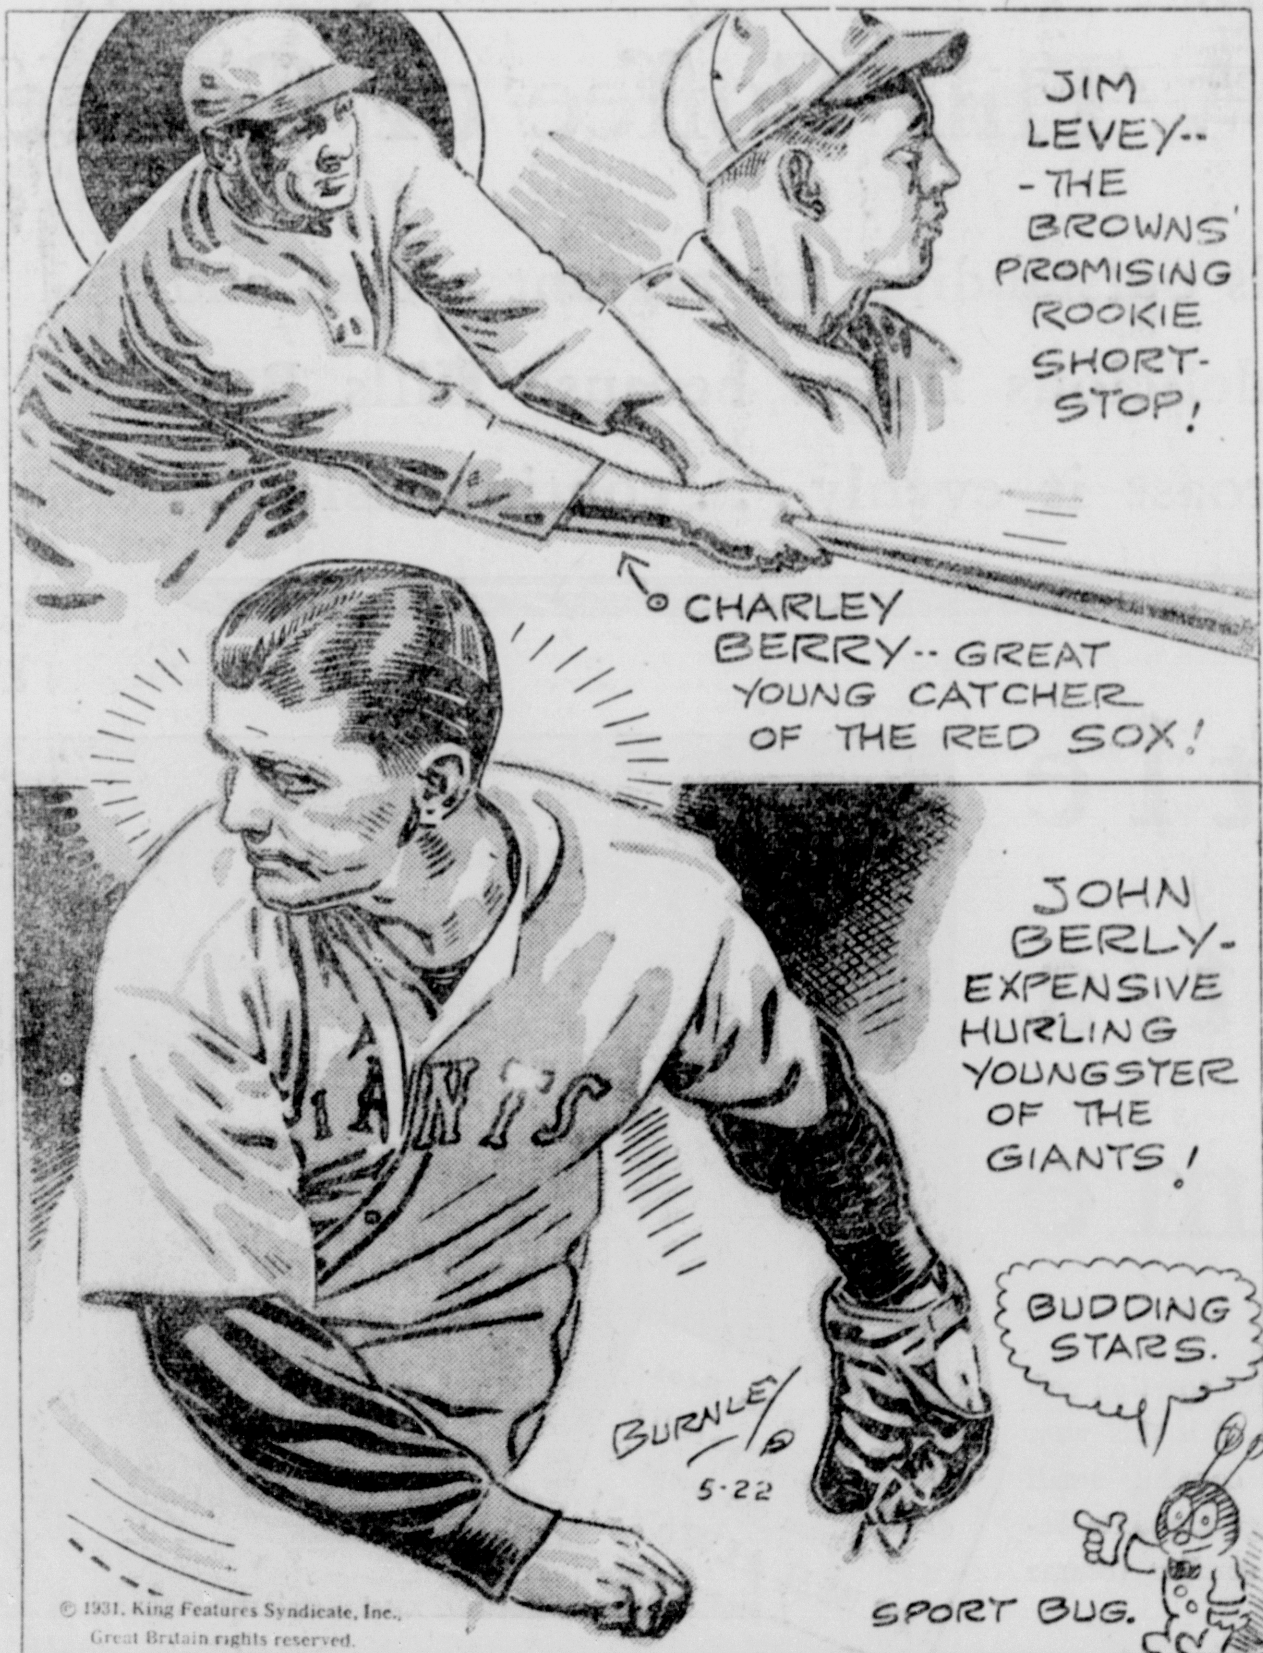

The films will depict football systems, and a number of noted players will appear in them, including Ernie Nevers, Stanford's all-American fullback in 1925.

Rookie Revelations

BASEBALL fans everywhere have spotted Charley Berry, Boston Red Sox catcher; Jim Levey, St. Louis Browns shortstop, and John Berly, New York Giants pitcher, as of stellar potency within two weeks of this season's start. Berry and Berly, both 28, are not exactly rookies except in the sense that now they are coming to genuine stardom for the first time after five or six years of real seasoning. Levey (he's not Jewish) is making his major league debut.

Strikingly enough, it was an accident that focussed fan attention on Berry's play. He was the Red Sox rock that tried to block Babe Ruth from making home plate the unfortunate day when the Bambino hurt his leg so badly that he

(the Babe) was laid up for more than a week. It was a terrific collision, which must have reminded Berry of his football days at Lafayette, where it was his strenuous duty to spill the interference when any opposing back tried to skirt his end or cut off his nearest tackle. Charley's 185 pounds of real brawn met the rush of Ruth's sprinting 212 pounds. It was an explosive shock, but Babe scored. That was not Berry's fault, however.

Connie Mack first noted Berry a few years ago. With the Athletics Charley used to handle Ed. Rommel when the latter was in his speedy zenith. But Mack had Cy Perkins and an understudy, Micky Cochrane. Besides, Berry insisted on risking his future by playing pro football. Finally Charley was sent to the Texas League from which he emerged to connect with the Red Sox. He did well last season. Thus far he looms as one of the very best catchers in baseball.

Levey, a former U. S. marine, looks like an ideal shortstop. His fielding dazzles and thus far his hitting has been way above average. Jim's only 23. While Levey probably will not object if New York fans insist on nicknaming him "Moe", it should be noted that he comes from staunch Presbyterian stock. He seems to be as definite an infield find as experts have seen in years and years.

BASEBALL LEAGUE TO BE FORMED AT MEETING TONIGHT

WILL INCLUDE
SOUTH SIDE, N. E.
AND ODD FELLOWS

FOURTH TEAM IS DESIRED TO
MAKE THE ORGANIZATION
COMPLETE

THE AMERICAN LEGION JUNIOR
LEAGUE STARTS PLAY-OFF
ON JUNE 2

Baseball will not become legendary to Brainerd if several ambitious young men are backed up by a sufficient number of boosters and fans. A meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Y to form a city league, at which all former city league players as well as any new arrivals to the city or any newly developed players are invited to attend. Several other sports which have been developed from minor to major sports in latter years and the fact that the majority of American youth now live in cities and towns has crowded out hard ball until the recruits of the American and National Leagues are truly bush leaguers, thus being recruited in many cases from what are known as the backwoods areas of our southern states.

Brainerd, in its nearly sixty years of existence, has had some well known ball players who will have a place in history. It will also have some in the future if the American Legion and several others who are well acquainted with the game, can work out matters. The American Legion junior league for boys up to seventeen years of age will start their play-off June 2 at 9 A. M. when the Northeast Boosters meet the Southeast Pirates. Marvin Nutting will umpire.

Lester Peterson's city team goes into action at Little Falls Sunday, which is a much talked of feature.

It is now the plan to revamp the city league of the past, having the Southside team, the Northeast team and the Odd Fellows team. A fourth team is desired and it is believed that nearly enough suits can be gotten together for the fourth team. It is suggested that two or three games a week could be played for the local schedule. However, all these matters will be worked out tonight when all interested assemble at 8 o'clock in the large club room on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A.

The city league two years ago was a big drawing attraction and a financial success. Frank Jarboe has charge of the Northeast team and Fredstrom will again pilot the Odd Fellows. Ira Peterson has charge of the Y. M. C. A. team and will pick a capable manager, while A. G. Loom will manage the Southside.

In checking through the high school and around town, it has been found that there are many new ball players to be had. Also many of the younger players are going to be worked in with the various teams.

Players who have not played before and wish to do so will please leave names and addresses at Y. M. C. A. or get in touch with any of the four managers.

Northeast and Southside will play tonight as a practice game in preparation for the game at Little Falls Sunday.

With Nathan Schuety, high school athletic star, on the mound, the Bye Clothiers pounded out a 7-2 victory over the All-Stars last night before a crowd of 200 people at the N. P. ball park. It was the first start for Schuety in city league competition and he held the All-Stars to five scattered hits.

The game was scoreless until the 4th inning when Proptnik of the All-Stars clouted one of Schuety's offerings for a homer. Boyd of the Bye team came back in the same inning for a homer to even the count.

The turning point in the game came in the fifth inning when an error by the All-Star first baseman and some timely hitting by the Clothiers let in three runs. Three more runs crossed the plate in the sixth for Byes to put the game on ice.

Tollefson, the All-Star pitcher, was nicked for nine hits, most of them being bunched in the fifth and sixth innings.

'TIDE COMING IN' SAYS SCHWAB ABOUT BUSINESS

proves its production facilities that the cost per ton is far less, and yet the buying power and the living standard of our people need not be threatened.

During the early stages of part time work, he declared, there was no alleviating circumstances to counter-balance the loss to the worker. "An exhaustive investigation of the major items of living costs, however," he said, "indicates that this spring there has been a drop in many important items of the family budget sufficient to offset considerably the shrinkage of the pay envelope. That I believe to be a very strong note of improvement in our general situation."

"The lowering of living costs means that the strain on the family budget has been lessened. The consumer will be able to catch up that much more quickly on his obligations. The load is being lifted off his mind through the very practical increase in his ability to pay."

The second cloud on the business horizon, Schwab said, "has been the fear on the part of business men concerning instability of prices, particularly the fear of lowering prices, before liquidation could be completed, this readjustment had to be made. Wholesale prices, as a matter of fact, had been trending downward, on the average, for ten years with only occasional short-term rises. This benefit had not, in the main, been passed on to the ultimate consumer, and the sharp readjustment of retail prices was necessary before the situation was in proper balance. We have had the liquidation now in most lines. Retailers who have not made adjustments to the new price levels know their own situations and still have that step to make."

"We must bear in mind," he said, "that our situation is world wide. The suffering and ill effects of the war have been international. There has been a tendency for nations to be hysterical in erecting economic barriers. I am happy to say that there is evidence of a more sane attitude, a growing ability to recognize that trade between nations can flourish only on a basis of mutual advantage."

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, agreed with Schwab's logic as not only sound, but if followed "would be advantageous to the steel industry."

"We should pay attention to Mr. Schwab's advice," he continued. "I wish I had the legal power to bring about the rehabilitation of the industry."

"Wages have not been stabilized in the industry. We have ourselves to blame for present conditions in the steel industry. You hear much of the interference of the tariff walls but the stones for that wall have not even been quarried as yet."

"The average duty on iron and steel would not pay the freight on steel from New York to Lancaster. We have practiced many economies and these were necessary because certain elements have practically ruined the steel business."

Farrell said if the present conditions continue, most steel companies would not earn their preferred dividends.

Manitowoc, Wis., May 22.—(UP)—Anton Eberle, Liberty town clerk, called up a Manitowoc newspaper today and in desperation asked them to print a story that he is not a millionaire.

Eberle found a 60-year-old penny the other day on his farm and remarked:

"If I can find the right person, I can get $1,000 for this."

At a dance that night he was congratulated on finding $1,000.

Two days later he received many telephone calls from persons asking "how it felt to find $25,000."

The figure grew until today he was deluged with calls congratulating him on becoming a millionaire.

BRIEF TO BE FILED IN MANDAMUS SUIT BROUGHT BY EMIL HOLMES

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—(UP)—Judge Gustavus Loevinger announced today that he will hand down a decision in the legislative reapportionment case by June 1.

The Ramsey county district judge has been hearing arguments in the suit brought by W. Yale Smiley, Minneapolis, seeking to enjoin Secretary of State Mike Holm from accepting filings for congressional nominations from specified districts on the grounds that Governor Floyd B. Olson's veto of the redistricting bill is valid.

Attorney General Henry N. Benson, representing Holm, contended that the legislative reapportionment bill is effective despite the governor's veto.

Judge Loevinger announced that he still is awaiting the filing of a brief in the mandamus suit brought by Emil Holmes, Minneapolis, to compel Holm to accept his filings for the nomination of congressman-at-large.

Havana, Cuba, May 22.—(UP)—Suppression of Cuba's revolutionary flare-up appeared complete today, with reports from all points indicating quiet had been restored.

Underlying surface calm, however, was a tension attributed by government authorities to opposition efforts to keep the nation in a condition of alarm, and it was indicated that revocation of constitutional guarantees might be expected to follow any new disorder.

Latest reports confirmed that sev-

San Francisco, May 22.—(UP)—Federal department of justice agents today entered the case of Frank J. Moran, arrested here in the belief that he is George J. E. Perry, "Wisconsin Bluebeard" wanted for the slaying of his bride, Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett-Perry.

Louis Wine, federal investigator, questioned Moran but drew from him only a repetition of denials previously made to police. Wine said that the spot near Lac Du Flambeau, Wisconsin, where Mrs. Hackett was shot to death last July, was an Indian reservation.

Moran told Wine that he was in New Orleans at the time of the shooting. Wine said, however, that Moran could give no address and that he was dissatisfied with the explanation.

San Francisco police were notified that Los Angeles authorities were investigating a telegram found in Perry's automobile when the latter was in Elytheville, Ark., last October. The message was addressed to Louise Keifer of Pasadena, and said:

"Please attend to my request at once by return wire. Leaving Sunday, George Perry."

Police were holding Moran pending word from Wisconsin authorities as to the results of photograph and fingerprint tests being made in an attempt to establish that Moran is the missing man.

'TIDE COMING IN' SAYS SCHWAB ABOUT BUSINESS

proves its production facilities that the cost per ton is far less, and yet the buying power and the living standard of our people need not be threatened."

During the early stages of part time work, he declared, there was no alleviating circumstances to counter-balance the loss to the worker. "An exhaustive investigation of the major items of living costs, however," he said, "indicates that this spring there has been a drop in many important items of the family budget sufficient to offset considerably the shrinkage of the pay envelope. That I believe to be a very strong note of improvement in our general situation."

"The lowering of living costs means that the strain on the family budget has been lessened. The consumer will be able to catch up that much more quickly on his obligations. The load is being lifted off his mind through the very practical increase in his ability to pay."

The second cloud on the business horizon, Schwab said, "has been the fear on the part of business men concerning instability of prices, particularly the fear of lowering prices, before liquidation could be completed, this readjustment had to be made. Wholesale prices, as a matter of fact, had been trending downward, on the average, for ten years with only occasional short-term rises. This benefit had not, in the main, been passed on to the ultimate consumer, and the sharp readjustment of retail prices was necessary before the situation was in proper balance. We have had the liquidation now in most lines. Retailers who have not made adjustments to the new price levels know their own situations and still have that step to make."

"We must bear in mind," he said, "that our situation is world wide. The suffering and ill effects of the war have been international. There has been a tendency for nations to be hysterical in erecting economic barriers. I am happy to say that there is evidence of a more sane attitude, a growing ability to recognize that trade between nations can flourish only on a basis of mutual advantage."

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, agreed with Schwab's logic as not only sound, but if followed "would be advantageous to the steel industry."

"We should pay attention to Mr. Schwab's advice," he continued. "I wish I had the legal power to bring about the rehabilitation of the industry."

"Wages have not been stabilized in the industry. We have ourselves to blame for present conditions in the steel industry. You hear much of the interference of the tariff walls but the stones for that wall have not even been quarried as yet."

"The average duty on iron and steel would not pay the freight on steel from New York to Lancaster. We have practiced many economies and these were necessary because certain elements have practically ruined the steel business."

Farrell said if the present conditions continue, most steel companies would not earn their preferred dividends.

BISHOP KEMERER SPEAKS AT ROTARY

Weekly Luncheon of the Club is Held in Basement of St. Paul's Episcopal Church

LARGE ATTENDANCE PRESENT

"Value of Life is Measure of Its Service to Humanity" is Theme of Bishop's Talk

A large attendance of Rotary club members and friends was present at the weekly luncheon which was held in the basement of St. Paul's Episcopal church and heard Rev. Benjamin T. Kemerer, Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Duluth, give an inspiring address.

"The value of life is the measure of its service to society," said the bishop. "Possession is a measure of responsibility, but it does not express the value of the individual. It is what we give out of ourselves that has enduring value."

"When a life consumes its own value, it produces nothing for humanity. It is more blessed to give than to receive, because the giving increases the stature of our character. Mere receiving is liable to be a detriment to character development," said the speaker.

He was introduced by Rev. C. M. Brandon, rector of the church. The ladies of the church served the luncheon which was a most delicious one.

NAME COMMITTEES FOR MEMORIAL DAY

D. H. Fullerton is Chairman of Committee in Charge of Ceremonies

An invitational meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms this week to formulate plans for Memorial Day. All organizations of Brainerd of a patriotic character were invited to send representatives. Representatives from American Legion, The Women's Relief Corps and the public schools were present.

Members of the G. A. R. were unable to be present as only a few members are now left in Brainerd and the infirmities of age and sickness prevented their attendance at this meeting for the first time in many years.

D. H. Fullerton was chosen chairman of the meeting and Albert Englund was selected secretary. By motion the following committee was appointed: managing committee, D. H. Fullerton, chairman; John Alton, commander of the American Legion and V. Turcotte. This committee will have full charge of the ceremonies in connection with Memorial Day.

W. V. Turcotte was named by the American Legion to act as marshal of the parade. By motion W. C. Cobb was placed in charge of the program at the cemetery.

It is the intention and desire of the managing committee in charge to make the observance of Memorial Day a city wide event and all citizens of Brainerd and all organizations are invited to participate in these ceremonies.

The marshal of the parade will be asked to assign a place to any organization or unit that wishes to march.

Oscar Harrison of Crosby and Fred Ahear of Trompsburg were callers at the Ernest Dunham home Thursday evening.

Visitors at the W. H. Van Horn home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Bliesner and family of Longville, Vera and Lloyd Young, Miss Pearl Van Horn and Clarence Holmes.

BISHOP KEMERER SPEAKS AT ROTARY

Weekly Luncheon of the Club is Held in Basement of St. Paul's Episcopal Church

LARGE ATTENDANCE PRESENT

"Value of Life is Measure of Its Service to Humanity" is Theme of Bishop's Talk

A large attendance of Rotary club members and friends was present at the weekly luncheon which was held in the basement of St. Paul's Episcopal church and heard Rt. Rev. Benjamin T. Kemmerer, Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Duluth, give an inspiring address.

"The value of life is the measure of its service to society," said the bishop. "Possession is a measure of responsibility, but it does not express the value of the individual. It is what we give out of ourselves that has enduring value."

"When a life consumes its own value, it produces nothing for humanity. It is more blessed to give than to receive, because the giving increases the stature of our character. More receiving is liable to be a detriment to character development," said the speaker.

He was introduced by Rev. C. M. Brandon, rector of the church. The ladies of the church served the luncheon which was a most delicious one.

JOINT MEETING OF VETERANS, AUXILIARY

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary of Brainerd and Staples held a joint meeting Wednesday evening, May 20, at Moose hall. The department president, Anna Blackwood of Duluth was present and gave a very interesting and instructive talk regarding the work of the organization.

Brainerd had a very large attendance of members and Staples post was represented by its president, Alice Alden and Ida Brummer, Ella Kinneberg, Clara Malfeo, Lillian Bradt.

Three new members were initiated to Brainerd post. After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and a lunch consisting of fruit salad, rolls, cake and coffee was served.

NAME COMMITTEES FOR MEMORIAL DAY

D. H. Fullerton is Chairman of Committee in Charge of Ceremonies

An invitational meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms this week to formulate plans for Memorial Day. All organizations of Brainerd of a patriotic character were invited to send representatives. Representatives from American Legion, The Women's Relief Corps and the public schools were present.

Members of the G. A. R., were unable to be present as only a few members are now left in Brainerd and the infirmities of age and sickness prevented their attendance at this meeting for the first time in many years.

D. H. Fullerton was chosen chairman of the meeting and Albert Englund was selected secretary. By motion, the managing committee, D. H. Fullerton, chairman; John Aiton, commander of the American Legion and V. Turcotte. This committee will have full charge of the ceremonies in connection with Memorial Day.

W. V. Turcotte was named by the American Legion to act as marshal of the parade. By motion W. C. Cobb was placed in charge of the program at the cemetery.

It is the intention and desire of the managing committee in charge to make the observance of Memorial Day a city wide event and all citizens of Brainerd and all organizations are invited to participate in these ceremonies.

The marshal of the parade will be directed to assign a place to any organization or unit that wishes to march.

OBSERVE CHILDREN'S DAY

Exercises to be Held Sunday Morning at First Congregational Church

Next Sunday, May 24, is Children's Day at the First Congregational church. The exercises will occupy the hour at 10:45 o'clock usually devoted to the morning service.

The program is entitled, "The Children of the Ages." Members of the school will depict the history of religious education in different ages of the world's history. The various scenes shown are, The Patriarchal Family, The Synagogue School, The Middle Ages, The Pilgrim Family, Robert Raikes' School and The Modern Church School. The last named will consist of a demonstration of work actually being done in the local school each Sunday, including a class of beginners actually in session, a Junior Bible Drill, and other phases of church school activity. Certificates will be presented to classes being promoted from one department to another.

This service concludes the work of the school for the season. There will be no more Sunday sessions until September, but there will be a Daily Vacation Bible school beginning June 1 and closing June 12 for all children of primary and junior age, whether members of this school or not.

Furnished Rooms Were Wonderful

By GENEVRA COOK

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

Clio Thornley, vivid and modish in a costume of black and white, sat in a Seventh avenue subway wedged in between a tired mother with two pale children and a whimpering baby, and a swarthy Italian with fierce mustache and fiercer eyes. Above her Jimmy Burton swayed listlessly, holding to a leather strap.

Suddenly he bent his head, and said, close to her ear, "Gee, Clio, you look so darling sitting there. Just like a flower."

In spite of the fact that her answering smile was half a frown, he went on, his honest brown eyes smiling into hers. "Gee, Clio, if you'd only marry me—Clio?"

"Fourteenth street!" shouted the guard.

As they pushed through the crowd, Clio glanced at Jimmy with scorn. "Marry you, Jimmy. And live in three furnished rooms and half a bath, and wear funny clothes, and go to a movie once a month, ride all my life in the subway! Why, you couldn't even afford to get a taxi to propose in!"

Jimmy was silent. As they reached the row of dingy red brick apartments where Clio could distinguish the entrance of her home from the one where Jimmy lived with his Aunt Sally only by the number, and by a cracked red vase in Mrs. O'Shaughnessy's window on the first floor, he said wistfully: "Well, but Clio, we could make a home out of even three furnished rooms—if we loved each other."

"Love isn't enough furniture, Jimmy," said Clio, wisely slipping the latchkey into the door. "Good night."

It wasn't long after that, that Clio, invited in to play bridge with Aunt Sally and Jimmy, found the fourth to be a carefully pink-and-white girl with wide baby blue eyes and a slight lisp, who had a room in the apartment above. Her name was Elsie Jane Wright; like Clio, she had a position in Macy's; and her chief occupation just now was the adoration of Jimmy Burton.

"Jimmy's Aunt Thally thinks it's the most wonderful thing in the world to have a home," cooed Elsie Jane across the table. "I think tho, too. But of course you don't like homes, do you, Clio?"

Jimmy looked out of the window. Clio could feel the eyes of Aunt Sally upon her; her opinion held weight with Jimmy, she knew. For an instant she hesitated. Then the color mounting in her cheeks, she rallied to her own standards. She wasn't going to pretend what she didn't believe.

"I think," she said, "that it's perfectly marvelous to have a home when you can afford one. A real house with an upstairs and a downstairs all your own, and a yard with a garden, and period furniture, and oriental hangings, and Persian rugs. Something that you could furnish beautifully, and really call a home!"

Elsie Jane widened her blue eyes in a sort of sorrowful wonder. "Just think," she said in her soft baby voice, looking up at Aunt Sally, "how much Clio's missing. Why, I think the finest little furnished apartment is the enest thing." She turned to Jimmy, smiling up into his face. "I love them. Don't you?" Clio couldn't be sure, but she thought that for just an instant their eyes met.

The next few weeks lengthened for Clio into what seemed like years. There was a succession of bridges with Elsie Jane often serving the lunches under the tutelage of Aunt Sally. Elsie Jane in a frilly apron.

Jimmy never repeated his error of proposing in the subway, because every night when they went home, Elsie Jane was there, too. And at last on one poignant day when the first breath of spring was in the air, Clio was home alone.

Well, she thought, if Jimmy wanted Elsie Jane, he must have her. Because of course, Jimmy must be happy. Clio was very clear on that point. And if he and Aunt Sally couldn't see through the flimsy pretense of fudge and hand embroidered dish cloths to the soul of Elsie Jane, who only wanted to be spoiled and supported by Jimmy—Clio fought back tears that stung at her eyes, and clenched her white hands till they hurt.

Suddenly she was aware of voices calling her name. It was Aunt Sally and Jimmy and Elsie Jane.

"I'm just telling them," cooed Elsie Jane. "I'm going to work in the house hold linen—so I can learn about them—uh—uh—sheets and pillow cases, and things." She looked up at Jimmy, blushing.

But Jimmy was looking at Clio. He didn't even answer Elsie Jane. He was saying: "Gee, Clio, what you need is some air. I'm going to take you up by the river."

Then Elsie Jane was crying: "Oh yes; we'll all go!" And then Aunt Sally, with one brief smile at Clio and Jimmy standing there, said firmly: "Oh, no, Elsie Jane. This is the night you said you wanted to learn how to roast beef. You're coming home with me!"

A little later, up by the river, gray with the soft mists of spring, Jimmy was whispering tenderly: "And you won't mind living in three furnished rooms, darling?"

And Clio was whispering back: "Oh, I don't care what they're furnished with, Jimmy. I don't care whether they're furnished at all—if only they're furnished with—you!"

Happy Moon Legends

Strong Heart's Anger.

There was a time, O Little-ones-within-my wigwam, when the maple leaves did not turn red. The leaves of the maple tree were green all the year round. But then there was a battle.

Two tribes of warriors met in a forest. They fought for a long time, but by and by one tribe was beaten. The beaten warriors ran.

Only those too badly hurt to run were left. In a little grove of maple trees three of these lay hurt. They were cut and bleeding.

One said, "Little Robin, give me some of your feathers to press upon my wounds. I must stop their bleeding or I die. Give me your feathers, little Robin."

But the Robin had been frightened by the war cries. He had flown away.

"Little Rabbit," said the second warrior, "give me of your soft fur."

But the rabbit had been frightened by an arrow.

"Kind Trees," said the third warrior, "let me have your leaves. If we do not stop the bleeding of our wounds then we die."

"We would like to," answered the Willows, "but we are afraid Strong Heart would not like it."

"We would give you our leaves," said the Beeches, "but Strong Heart would not like it."

The Maples said nothing. But here and there there was a rustling. The Maples were dropping their leaves.

They dropped their leaves on the wounds of the Red-children. They made beds of leaves for the warriors to lie upon.

Now from far off Strong Heart had heard the battle. When he came near the grove of trees he saw something strange. He saw some trees without leaves.

STOCK PRICES LIFT ONE TO FIVE POINTS

COMES FROM ACCUMULATION OF BUYING ORDERS, AFTER YES-TERDAY'S UPTURN

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, May 22.—Stock prices were lifted from one to nearly five points today on an accumulation of buying orders resulting from the good feeling aroused by the substantial upturn in the list yesterday. After the initial buying had been satisfied, the list eased.

Railroad shares lost most of their recent buoyancy but their place was taken by various industrial leaders. Unexpected declaration of the regular quarterly dividend by J. I. Case directors last night resulted in a 3 5/8 point gain in the issue at the opening. Auburn Auto opened 4 1/2 points higher on a small transaction and small gains were made by other leaders.

Steel Common opened 3 1/4 point higher at 100 5/8 and later sold off to below par. Similar gains were made by other leaders such as American Telephone, International Telephone, Western Union, American Can and Union Carbide.

Wise Potato Bugs

Potato bugs that spend the winter underground take "anti-freeze" precautions by getting rid of one-third their weight in water, which otherwise would freeze and burst the body cells.

White Strawberries

There is a cultivated white strawberry which grows in France, but it rarely grows in the United States. Wild white strawberries are sports of the red strawberries. The bureau of plant industry does not know of any wild strawberries that are naturally white.

The trouble with the younger generation today is that it is demanding more horse power when it should be developing more will power.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

THE TUNIC CONTRASTS

Pardon our negligence, but we wear it practically all day long now that the pajama mode is so popular. We wear pajamas for lounging, for entertaining, for sports, for dinner and even for dancing, and we can visualize this model in so many charming fabrics that it fits into every need. It's so simple to make with its smart tunic and wide trousers that any beginner could fashion them in no time. When contrasting materials are used, very smart results are achieved. Plain and printed crepe are suggested, although the model is very attractive in a combination of cotton fabrics. A choker string of brightly colored wooden beads is suggested by way of an accessory.

Furnished Rooms Were Wonderful

By GENEVRA COOK

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service.)

Clio Thornley, vivid and modish in a costume of black and white, sat in a Seventh avenue subway wedged in between a tired mother with two pale children and a whimpering baby, and a swarthy Italian with fierce mustache and fiercer eyes. Above her Jimmy Burton swayed listlessly, holding to a leather strap.

Suddenly he bent his head, and said, close to her ear, "Gee, Clio, you look so darling sitting there. Just like a flower."

In spite of the fact that her answering smile was half a frown, he went on, his honest brown eyes smiling into hers. "Gee, Clio, if you'd only marry me—Clio?"

"Fourteenth street!" shouted the guard.

As they pushed through the crowd, Clio glanced at Jimmy with scorn. "Marry you, Jimmy. And live in three furnished rooms and half a bath, and wear funny clothes, and go to a movie once a month, ride all my life in the subway! Why, you couldn't even afford to get a taxi to propose in!"

Jimmy was silent. As they reached the row of dingy red brick apartments where Clio could distinguish the entrance of her home from the one where Jimmy lived with his Aunt Sally only by the number, and by a cracked red vase in Mrs. O'Shaughnessy's window on the first floor, he said wistfully: "Well, but Clio, we could make a home out of even three furnished rooms—if we loved each other."

"Love isn't enough furniture, Jimmy," said Clio, wisely slipping the latchkey into the door. "Good night."

It wasn't long after that, that Clio, invited in to play bridge with Aunt Sally and Jimmy, found the fourth to be a carefully pink-and-white girl with wide baby blue eyes and a slight limp, who had a room in the apartment above. Her name was Elsie Jane Wright; like Clio, she had a position in Macy's; and her chief occupation just now was the adoration of Jimmy Burton.

"Jimmy's Aunt Thally thinks it's the most wonderful thing in the world to have a home," cooed Elsie Jane across the table. "I think this, too. But of course you don't like homes, do you, Clio?"

Jimmy looked out of the window. Clio could feel the eyes of Aunt Sally upon her; her opinion held weight with Jimmy, she knew. For an instant she hesitated. Then, the color mounting in her cheeks, she rallied to her own standards. She wasn't going to pretend what she didn't believe.

"I think," she said, "that it's perfectly marvelous to have a home when you can afford one. A real home, with an upstairs and a downstairs all your own, and a yard with a garden, and period furniture, and oriental hangings, and Persian rugs. Something that you could furnish beautifully, and really call a home!"

Elsie Jane widened her blue eyes in a sort of sorrowful wonder. "Just think," she said in her soft baby voice, looking up at Aunt Sally, "how much Clio's missing. Why, I think the finest little furnished apartment is the cutest thing." She turned to Jimmy, smiling up into his face. "I love them. Don't you?" Clio couldn't be sure, but she thought that for just an instant, their eyes met.

The next few weeks lengthened for Clio into what seemed like years. There was a succession of bridges with Elsie Jane often serving the lunches under the tutelage of Aunt Sally. Elsie Jane in a frilly apron.

Jimmy never repeated his error of proposing in the subway, because every night when they went home, Elsie Jane was there, too. And at last on one poignant day when the first breath of spring was in the air, Clio felt home alone.

Well, she thought, if Jimmy wanted Elsie Jane, he must have her. Because of course, Jimmy must be happy. Clio was very clear on that point. And if he and Aunt Sally couldn't see through the flimsy pretense of fudge and hand embroidered dish cloths to the soul of Elsie Jane, who only wanted to be spoiled and supported by Jimmy—Clio fought back tears that stung at her eyes, and clenched her white hands till they hurt.

Suddenly she was aware of voices calling her name. It was Aunt Sally and Jimmy and Elsie Jane.

"I'm just telling them," cooed Elsie Jane. "I'm going to work in the house hold linen—so I can learn about them—uh—uh—sheets and pillow cases, and things." She looked up at Jimmy, blushing.

But Jimmy was looking at Clio. He didn't even answer Elsie Jane. He was saying: "Gee, Clio, what you need is some air. I'm going to take you up by the river."

Then Elsie Jane was crying: "Oh, yes; we'll all go!" And then Aunt Sally, with one brief smile at Clio and Jimmy standing there, said firmly: "Oh, no, Elsie Jane. This is the night you said you wanted to learn how to roast beef. You're coming home with me!"

A little later, up by the river, gray with the soft mists of spring, Jimmy was whispering tenderly: "And you won't mind living in three furnished rooms, darling?"

And Clio was whispering back: "Oh, I don't care what they're furnished with, Jimmy. I don't care whether they're furnished at all—if only they're furnished with—you!"
